SCHOOL FOR CASHIERS

Seven Men Has Gone From Citizens Bank to Good Positions.

SEVERAL RECENT CHANGES.

Dudley Humphrey, for Six Years a Clerk in the Citizens National of Towanda, Chosen Cashier of the First National, Galeton New Clerk.

Towanda young men have the habit of making good and securing the best positions offered. In line with this statement is the fact that Dudley Humphrey of the Citizens National Bank, has been selected from a list of five applicants to become the cashier of the First National Bank of Galeton. Mr. Humphrey left Towanda Sunday and took up his new duties on Monday. He succeeds William B. Layton, who goes to Scranton to become cashier of the Keystone bank, taking the place of M. J. Murphy, who goes to New York. All three of these gentlemen are Towandians, and all are former employes of the Citizens National bank. Mr. Humphrey has been for six years one of the most efficient and obliging clerks of the Citizens National.

Audley F. Ryan of Towanda, has taken a clerkship in the Citizens National bank, filling the vacancy caused by the resignation of Dudley Humphrey, who is now the cashier of the First National bank of Galeton. Mr. Ryan has been for three years filling a responsible place in the office of the Susquehana and New York railroad in Towanda, acting as chief clerk and storekeeper. Previous to this he had a valuable experience in Oil City and in West Virginia. He is a Towanda young man, a graduate of the High school and the Towanda Business college. That he will "make good" in his new work is the expectation of his friends.

In this connection it will be of interest to note that during the 16 years that Hon. J. K. Nowell has been cashier of the Citizens, there have gone out from that institution seven cashiers. The first was Jewett C. Fowler, cashier of the First National bank of Montgomery, Pa. George S. Little, now decased, became cashier of the First National bank at Troy, this county. O. L. Haverly went from the Citizens to the Farmers National bank of Athens, which under his management has grown to be one of the soundest financial institutions in the county.

M. J. Murphy, who the first of next month becomes the cashier of a new bank in New York city, went from Towanda to the Athens National bank; from there to Scranton as cashier of the Keystone. E. M. Muir, now cashier of the Nanticoke National bank, when he went from Towanda became the cashier of the Citizens National bank at Windber. W. B. Layton, when he left Towanda, became the first cashier of the First National bank of Galeton, a position he has resigned to become cashier of the Keystone bank in Scranton. He is succeeded at Galeton by Dudley Humphrey, the last man to leave the Citizens.

This record speaks exceedingly well for the training given in the Citizens, and it is emphasized by the fact that all these young men have made a success when placed in responsible banking positions. During the 16 years of Mr. Newell's service as cashier of the Citizens National the deposits have increased from under $400,000 to over $800,000, and the work is being handled by the same number of clerks as were employed at the beginning of that period.

New Road Reaches Canton.

Work on the Pittsburg, Binghamton and Eastern railroad has reached the Canton borough limits and this week teams and men are making rapid progress just West of Sullivan street, and from Cedar Ledge the right of way has been secured and the line of the road fairly swarms with men and teams. A large steam shovel is on the Northern Central railroad tracks there waiting to be taken to a point between Canton and East Canton, and this one will make five or six which are being used between Canton and Franklindale. The bride across Whitehead creek is completed and the connection with the Northern Central will be made this week and in a short time it will be possible to bring locomotives to Canton.

Pleaded Guilty.

The first case to be reported from the grand jury of the United States district court now in session at Scranton, was that of Earl Swackhammer, from this county. Swackhammer, a rural free delivery carrier, was charged with abstracting $40.90 from a letter in his possession. A true bill was found. Swackhammer had returned the money that he had abstracted, pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs. This was his first offense.

TOWANDA GROOM, WILLIAMSPORT BRIDE.

Miss Jane A. Buckley and S. Bergen Park Wedded Last Week.

The home of the bride in Williamsport was the scene of a pretty Autumn wedding Oct. 17, when Miss Jane A. Buckley and S. Bergen Park of Towanda, were united in marriage, the Rev. Dr. Gibson, rector of Trinity church, performing the ceremony. The wedding was attended by a number of friends of the families and of the young bride and groom from the towns of two counties.

Promptly at 8 o'clock, to the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin, played by Miss Elsie Hickey, of Paterson, N. J., the bridal party appeared, and the ceremony took place. The bride was attired in a gown of white lace over chiffon silk, and she caried a huge bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaids were Misses Alberta Cranmer and Helen J. Park, a sister of the groom, both of Monroeton. They wore silk mull and carried white carnations, as did also the maid of honor, who was Miss Helen Thurston of Athens. The best man was Fred A. Buckley of Pittsburg, brother of the bride, and the ushers were Messrs. George E. Wolfe, Esq., of Johnstown, Pa., and Ray A. Hubler of West Pittston, Pa., classmates of the groom. The home was beautifully decorated with flowers, palms and potted plants.

Following the ceremony there was a reception at the Park Hotel, at which a bountiful and delicious wedding supper was served, and after which dancing was enjoyed, music being rendered throughout the evening by the Williamsport orchestra.

Miss Buckley is well known in Bradford county having lived for a number of years at Athens. She is the only daughter of Superintendent A. S. Buckley of the Elk Tanning company.

A PLEASANT EVENT.

Golden Wedding of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Owen of Leona.

their home in Leona on Thu[rs]day Oct. 1, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Owen celebrated the 50th anniversary of their wedding. Mrs. Anna Owen (nee Hendrickson) was born in Great Bend, Susquehanna county, N. Y., May 11, 1836. A. W. Owen was born in Virgil, Cortland county, N. Y., Dec. 7, 1836. They were married Oct. 18, 1856 in Waupon, Fon-du-lac county, Wis. As a gift they received $51 in gold.

During the 50 years of their union 12 children were born, of which ten survive. Quite a large crowd assembled at the Owen home, though on account of sickness several children could not attend. Promptly at 11 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Owen were reunited in marriage by the Rev. Mr. Stead of Leona.

A fine dinner was served and during the day a family photograph was taken, in which four generations were represented. The day passed pleasantly and the friends all departed for their homes wishing Mr. and Mrs. Owen many more happy celebrations.

PRETTY ELOPER HOME AGAIN.

But J. Lester Reynolds Has Not Returned to Fassetts.

An exchange says Miss Clara Esther Clark, whom it was alleged ran away with J. Lester Reynolds of Fassetts, and was united in marriage to him in Columbus, O., has returned to the East and at present is with her sister in Canton. When it was found that Mrs. Reynolds of Fassetts, would not prosecute her husband on the charge of bigamy, Reynolds and Miss Clark were released from the Columbus, O., jail, where they were confined pending the decision of Mrs. Reynolds and the authorities of her town. It is not known where Reynolds is at the present time.

One report states that he wishes to return to Fassetts and live down the past. Another report is that he wishes to go to Waverly to live. Mrs. Reynolds will leave Fassetts this week and will probably join her husband.

LOST DIAMOND FOUND.

Long Search for Drill "Bit" Ended at Scranton.

After a search of two months a diamond drill "bit" valued at $1,600 has been found in the Brisbin mine of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad company at Scranton. The drill was being used in boring through a solid wall of coal into an adjoining vein. It became detached and fell through a crevice in the workings. Six men were placed at work to recover it. These men have worked for two months and have received hundreds of dollars in wages in the search which at last has been successful.

Monday a driller named Walter Schooly was drowned by the capsizing of a raft in the Susquehanna river at Pittston. He had a $3,100 diamond "bit" strapped to his body.

Dubois—Walker.

Word has been received at Athens of the marriage at Columbia Station, Seattle, Wash., of Harlie Dubois of Athens, to Miss Killie C. Walker of Louisburg, Mo.

KILLED AT BRIDGE.

BROKEN COUPLING THE CAUSE

Ten Cars Went Over New Embankment at the Towanda Upper Station on Monday Morning, Wrecking Portion of High Trestle.

The first really serious accident to happen during the construction of the Lehigh Valley railroad bridge piers in Towanda, occurred about 8 o'clock yesterday morning, and resulted in the instant death of an Italian laborer employed by Mutchler & Son. Ten cars were tumbled off the end of the big embankment at the West end of the new bridge and a long section of trestling reaching out to the abutment was smashed.

The accident was due to the breaking of a coupling between two cars in a long dirt train which was being shoved out on the fill prepartory to dumping the train load. The contractors have begun to load much much of their machinery, and two cars were standing at the end of the fill. Two men, an American and an Italian, were working on these cars. A dirt train was shoved out on the bank, which inclines sharply toward the end. A coupling broke and the caboose, the car on which the huge scraper used in unloading is carried and six loaded dirt cars crashed into the two cars on which the machinery was being loaded. The whole went crashing to the bottom of the bank, wrecking the trestle and killing the Italian. The other man escaped by jumping.

The wrecking crew from Sayre was quickly on the scene and hoisted the cars from the hole. Witnesses of the accident say the smash was terrific, and it is almost a miracle that others were not killed or hurt or the damage more extensive, as the fall was at least 30 feet.

ALASKA TRAVELERS MET IN SEATTLE.

Party of Towandians Send Messages From Pacific Coast.

Joseph C. Shipman is visiting at F. J. Kline's for a few days. Mr. Shipman has just returned from a trip of several months to Alaska and a week ago last Monday while in Seattle met the party of Towanda people who recently left here, where they were waiting for their goods before going further. They all wished to be remembered to the "home folks."

Mr. Shipman said he saw the Towanda men twice; the first time he was in a hurry, and the second time they were in a hurry, getting started on their long trip to Wrangle, so that he did not have a great deal of time to inquire how they were. All of the travelers, however, looked very well and all seemed in the best of spirits and eager to reach their far away destination. Mr. Shipman says Alaska is a wonderful country, and not nearly so terrible as some stories have stated.

$125,000 FOR GOOD ROADS.

Everybody Wants Them But Dauphin County.

Following the announcement that Bradford county has put in applications for a portion of the appropriation, and will secure money next year for good roads work, comes the news from Harrisburg, that State Highway Commissioner Hunter has issued a statement showing the various townships that have made application for a share of the state maintenance fund which this year amounts to $125,000.

Under the provisions of the new road act ten per cent. of the amount available for highway purposes shall be set aside for the purpose of maintenance of highways and shall be apportioned among townships or counties applying for the same in proportion to the mileage of improved highways made under the provisions of the act, on which have already or may hereafter be made at the expense of such townships or counties.

But in no case shall the amount thus given by the state for maintenance be more than one-half the amount which, in the judgment of the state highway commissioner, the annual cost of maintaining improved highways of the standard construction prevailing in such township or county should be no more than one-half the sworn average annual cost of maintenance as set forth in the petition of the supervisors or county commissioners.

Dauphin county gets none of this money this year, but Franklin gets $196.88 for Washington township; Lebanon, $1,440 for Jackson and $1,409.80 for North Lebanon; Schuylkill $150 for Frailey, and Berks $432 for Heidelberg and $676.80 for Marion.

Masters—Brown.

Floyd Masters and Miss Carrie I. Brown, both of Ricketts, were married on Oct. 17, by Justice Orcutt, at his office in Towanda.

STRAINED RELATIONS AMONG BIG ROADS.

Split in Combine Threatened Because of Mileage Books.

The life of the Central Passenger association appears to be at stake, unless the controversy over the contemplated intention of some of the trunk lines, notably the New York Central, to issue a $20 mileage book, "good to bearer," in Central Passenger association is settled. After several hours' conference and debate on Friday last of the joint passenger committee in New York, a resolution refering the entire question to the executive committee was adopted, with a recommendation that earnest efforts be made to induce the trunk lines which have anounced their intention to extend the $20 mileage book into Central territory, to reconsider their action and abandon the project.

The resolution, it is understood, lacked a unanimous vote. While great secretiveness prevails, the general supposition is that the lines that have already announced their purpose to issue such mileage do not intend to change their determination. Among passenger men the opinion prevails that unless these lines can be induced to reconsider their action, ultimately all lines will be forced to a flat rate of two cents a mile.

If this dispute is not settled by the executive officers and the sale of the $20 mileage book is begun, it will force the flat two-cent rate throughout Central Passenger association, with the almost inevitable prospect that its extensive mileage bureau will be disrupted. The same will doubtless prove true of the clergy bureau, and no more special rates will be granted by lines in the association. As there will be little or no occasion for the continuance of the association, its life is practically at stake.

BRADFORD HISTORICAL MEETING

No White Feathers.

Captain G. W. Kilmer of Monroeton, was in town Saturday to inspect Sullivan Post, No. 388, G. A. R. The captain was one of the brave boys of the 141st, and took part in 36 battles and skirmishes, and was never known to flinch, but now modestly declares that he was always afraid and wonders how he managed to get through it all without showing the white feather. It was probably because there were no white feathers about him.—Sullivan Review.

COURT PROCEEDINGS.

Judge Fanning Presiding in Common Pleas at Troy.

FIFTEEN CASES ARE LISTED.

Judge Fanning Returned Home Friday, Much Improved in Health—Jurors Attending at Troy—Numerous Divorce Cases Acted Upon.

With 15 cases on the calendar for trial, the October term of county court opened at Troy Monday morning with Judge A. C. Fanning on the bench. After a sojourn of several weeks at Asbury Park, by the advice of his physician, the judge returned looking better than he did since early last Summer, and he declares he is completely recovered from the illness which brought the September term to a sudden termination here.

The jurors on the list to hear the cases are as follows: Julius T. Adams, Springfield; Harry G. Atkins, Athens; John M. Allen, Albany; Charles Bowen, Warren; S. W. Buck, LeRaysville; William W. Strong, defendant's appeal; C. F. Moore vs. Ellen Welsh, Samuel Welsh, Margaret Balmer, Samuel Balmer, ejectment; John Kelly vs. Granville township, trespass; Banner Rubber company vs. John F. Brann, defendant's appeal.

Divorce Cases in Court.

Subpoenas in divorce have been granted in the suit of Harry A. Clark against his wife, Francis W. Clark, and a decree in divorce has been awarded in the case of Laura Alexander ves. her husband James Lewis Alexander.

Subpoenas in divorce have been issued in the suit of Catherine M. Estelle against her husband, Raymond S. Estelle, both of Smithfield, and in the suit of Emaline Tompkins, against her husband, George A. Tompkins.

A decree in divorce has been granted in the suit of Orpha McCain of Wyalusing township against her husband, William W. McCain.

Master in Equity.

Attorney D. C. DeWitt has been appointed master in equity in the case between John T. Bullard and George N. Archer and others; the suit is over a property at Wysox.

Letters testamentary have been issued at the register and recorder's office to O. L. Haverly, in the estate of the late Mary Hadlock of Athens.

Divorce Mill Grinds.

A divorce has been decreed in the case of Mary Andrews, who brought suit against her husband, James C. Andrews. The litigants are both residents of Troy. In the suit of Sarah M. Burns vs. L. D. Burns, the court has granted a rule to the respondent to show cause why an order for alimony should not be made, pendente lite, or while the litigation is proceeding, as well as for counsel fees.

Probably Fatal.

Peter Bont, engineer on extra Lehigh Valley engine 1657, was struck in the head while passing Smithboro yesterday afternoon and injured. He was brought to Waverly for medical aid. When he reached Waverly he was yet unconscious and the last report was given out last night that it was thought his injuries were such that death would follow shortly.

Foot Ball Next Saturday.

On Saturday afternoon the Towanda High school and Sayre High school elevens will play foot ball on the East Side grounds. Towanda hasn't lost a game yet this season.

DEATH WAS NOT DUE TO ANTI-TOXIN.

Discussion Brought About Through Newspapers' Attempt at Diagnosis.

In recording the death last week of little Mildred Lockett of Sayre, a newspaper of that place stated that death was due to the use of anti-toxin introduced into the system to overcome diphtheria, with which the child was suffering. Physicians interested in the subject, surprised at the statement, began to make inquiry, and Dr. G. M. Woodburn of this place, has received the following reply from Dr. T. Wright of Sayre, who treated the case:

302 South Wilbur Ave., Sayre, Pa.,
Oct. 20, 1906.

Dr. C. M. Woodburn,
Towanda, Pa.,

Dear Doctor:—Your favor relative to the Lockett case of diphtheria received. Death resulted from inflammation of the kidneys with entire suppression of their function for two days preceeding death. No ill effects from the use of anti-toxin were at any time observed. Owing to the improvement of the throat symptoms its use had been discontinued three days previous to the death of the little girl. Reference to the report sent to the State department of health will corroborate. Personally I have never seen untoward results from the use of anti-toxin, even though exhibited in the large doses sometimes required by desperate cases.

Yours truly,
T. WRIGHT.

Speaking of the matter last evening a Towanda physician said that there seemed to be a wide spread notion among the laity that anti-toxin was often given in such large doses that death resulted. This is an error, and arises from a widespread prejudice against the treatment.

LACEYVILLE OIL WELL.

Tools Have Been Recovered and the Hole is to Be Deepened.

A few days ago the last of the lost drilling outfit was taken from the oil well at the Eddy. For more than a year the company have been trying to get things cleaned up, but hard luck seemed to have made a mark of them and at times the well would be nearly full of rope and tools, but still, undaunted, they kept at it with the above result.

The drilling stem and bit were badly bent—as crooked as it was possible for them to be in the hole—and Monday they were taken to Monroeton where they will be repaired and again used on the well.

There is some iron and steel yet in the hole, the result of small pieces breaking off the fishing tools, but these, we are informed, can be broken up and bailed out, without much trouble.

The work of sinking the well deeper will be pushed with all possible speed and when completed will probably be "shot." The outcome is watched in this vicinity with considerable interest.—Messenger.

Palace Andes Range

The Palace Andes will do the most work, make you do the least work, and use the least fuel.

It will do the most work because it has an extra large oven and its oven heating flue system is so scientifically constructed that the very greatest baking efficiency is attained.

It makes you do the least work because its design is plain and devoid of "gingerbread" ornaments which require constant dusting, and because it has all these labor-savers—removable fire-box and grate, big, deep ash-pan, large broiler door, a reliable oven thermometer, and a new which can be found on no other range. When the closet door is closed you have a warming closet between the low and the high shelves, and with the door open, the closet is converted into a large extra shelf space.

If you will stop in at our store we will be glad to show you all these Andes points and prove their value.

DEATH ROLL OF A WEEK

B. Worth Jennings Dead.

B. Worth Jennings, the well known lumberman, died on Saturday night in the hospital at Elkins, W. Va., where he was taken some days ago, suffering from a gunshot wound self-inflicted while mentally unbalanced. Mr. Jennings was for many years associated with his brother, C. H. Jennings, in the lumber business in Sullivan county, and later in Maryland and West Virginia. He was engaged in building a large lumber town, Jenningston, W. Va., and was also interested in many other enterprises. Overwork is believed to be the cause that led up to his illness and sad death. Funeral services were held on Monday at Mehoopany. Lehigh Valley train No. 4, passing Towanda at 1:12 p. m., will be stopped at Mehoopany for the accommodation of people from this section who wish to attend the funeral.

TOWANDA GIRL HAS WRITTEN NEW PLAY.

Miss Mary Welles the Authoress of Thanksgiving Play.

It will be a surprise to all but her intimate friends to learn that Miss Mary Welles of Towanda, is the talented authoress of the play which has been selected for the Thanksgiving production of the local talent. "The Transplanting of Betty' is the title, and the piece is a comedy in which Eastern and Western life is contrasted. Good judges who have read the lines say that the production displays remarkable promise for the future of the young author.

Another interesting feature in connection with the effort being made by the Theta Sigma girls is that Miss Welles, after having toiled for months to write the sketch especially for the Thanksgiving event, was modest enough to submit it to the judges who selected the play without naming herself as the writer of the piece. Several other offerings in the dramatic line were looked over, and "The Transplanting of Betty" was the one chosen; a remarkable and pleasant coincidence.

J. H. TURRELL'S WILL.

Wife and Partner Named as Executors of Estate.

The will of the late J. Henry Turrell, the lumberman, was probated last week by Register Battle, at Wilkes-Barre. His personal property is valued at $10,000 and the real estate at $20,000. He requests that his interests in the firm of Trexler, Turrell & Co. of Ricketts, and all his assets connected with the said firm be continued until all the purposes of the firm are accomplished as provided for in the agreement made by the members of the said firm on Jan. 1, 1900.

His executors are his wife, Rowena E. Turrell and Frank M. Trexler of Alletown. The executors are to have charge of and manage his estate to the best interests of the estate and they also have power to invest or reinvest any moneys or proceeds of the sale of real estate or person property.

His wife shall have her share of the real estate and personal property as provided by the interstate laws of the state of Pennsylvania and she can take the same at any time she sees fit.

The residue of the real estate is to be equally divided between his children and the payment and distribution is to be made by the executors at their discretion out of the respective shares allotted to the children. The proportionate share of the income of the estate is to be paid to the respective heirs by the executors after each child attains the age of 21 years.

BELIEVE FRED BECKWITH MENTALLY UNSOUND.

That Is Opinion of Lawyers Who Observed Him.

Evidently lacking mental balance, unfortunate Fred Beckwith of Warren, presented a pitiful spectacle on Tuesday afternoon as he was ejected from one law office after another, finally being taken charge of by friends, who are about to take the legal steps necessary for Beckwith's confinement while in his present condition.

The case is a particularly sad one; Beckwith who is only 32 years old, has a loyal wife and two small children. He has been a prosperous and thrify farmer, owning a place of about 50 acres in Warren. His actions of late, according to his wife's statement, have been such as to cause her much uneasiness. Beckwith appears to be laboring under the impression that all of his neighbors are his enemies and are stealing his grain and potatoes; his wish yesterday was to have the entire population of Warren arrested on the charge of theft. For an hour he haunted the prothonotary's office going from there to Attorney Maxwell's office, where the combined physical efforts of that fawyer, Constable McCracken, John Carroll and 'Squire Meredith were needed to keep poor Beckwith away from the hallway.

A commission in lunacy will, it is expected, be appointed at an early date, who will make some provision for the man. His wife and other relatives are broken-hearted over the state of the young man's mental health, and have the sympathy of the entire Warren community.

Republican mass meeting in Towanda next Friday.

When it comes to keeping mum when asked questions candidate Kipp is lowering the record.

Democratic candidate Kipp says he will support Roosevelt. Republican candidate Lilley has already and is now supporting him.

EDWIN S. STUART FOR GOVERNOR

Hon. Edwin S. Stuart, the Republican candidate for governor of Pennsylvania, was elected mayor of the great city of Philadelphia in 1891. He served as mayor of that city for a full term of four years.

In March, 1895, when his term of office expired and he was about to turn over to his successor the responsibilities of his office, a town meeting of representative men was held at the Union League, at which meeting many complimentary addresses were made, paying tribute to Mr. Stuart's sterling integrity, his brilliant achievements and qualifications as the chief executive of a great city. Below we quote excerpts taken from the addresses of some of the most prominent speakers on this occasion:

Hon. John Wanamaker said:—"The highest officials of the Commonwealth are here; the representatives of all political parties, professions and pursuits; merchants and manufacturers, bankers and builders, the busiest and best of our citizens, young and old, irrespective of nationality, creed and color, have assembled by common impulse to bear witness in this public way to the high esteem in which they hold a public man. For once, at least, Philadelphia, as full of opinions as it is noises, is a unit. Without a single difference we agree that this typical American city has had from the first to the last of his term a typical mayor in the person of Edwin S. Stuart."

Mr. Wanamaker introduced the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted amid thundering applause:

Resolved, On the 17th of April, 1895, at the Union League, citizens of Philadelphia, in town meeting assembled, at the expiration of the official term of Edwin S. Stuart, mayor of the city, do hereby make record of our profound personal respect for him as a man, and we further testify to his unswerving fidelity in the performance of his duty as mayor.

Arch Bishop Ryan said:—"I feel this evening, as I represent some 70 churches, that I ought to be here representing them, to pay also my tribute to the chief magistrate who has acted with such impartiality and with such devotedness to the public interest. The tribute to him this evening is a just tribute, a noble one, and in one sense of the term a thoroughly catholic and universal tribute of various parties, of various denominations, from scholars of thought all coming tigether in this place, belonging to various parties, to say to the chief executive, after four years of trial, and in a position in which the Bullitt Bill placed him of great responsibility, and to have achieved such a triumph."

Hon. Charles Emory Smith said:—"If all the friends of Edwin S. Stuart could gather to express their sentiments toward him, the gathering would be co-extensive with the bounds of Philadelphia, and it would embrace all of its 1,250,000 people."

Such testimony as this from public men of national reputation, always conservative and sincere, who have been personally acquainted with Mr. Stuart for many years, and familiar with his official record as mayor of Philadelphia, establishes the high type of man the Republican party of Pennsylvania has nominated for governor.

If elected governor he will undoubtedly administer the functions of this high office with the same rectitude and definite purpose to conscientiously and faithfully serve all the people of the Commonwealth as he did when mayor of Philadelphia.

MR. LILLEY'S RECORD AND HIS SUPPORT OF ROOSEVELT.

The Democrats, including Mr. Kipp himself, have raised the issue of Congressman Lilley's loyalty to the President. Why they should have done so is more or less puzzling unless we conclude at once that the attack is entirely insincere, and that they do not believe it themselves, and are deliberately trying to make the people believe a lie. So invulnerable is Mr. Lilley with respect to his congressional record and his support of Roosevelt that an assault on him of this kind puts the assailant under suspicion. Doesn't Mr. Kipp know as well as he knows anything that this charge of disloyalty to the President is a falsehood? If there is any one thing on which above all others Mr. Lilley asks the votes of the people it is precisely and exactly the thing attacked—his record of service.

Disloyal to Roosevlt, is he? Let those speak who know. Perhaps the Hon. Joseph G. Cannon, Speaker of the Lower House of the United States Congress, is qualified to testify. It will be allowed, we presume, that his testimony is as reliable and his judgment as good as George W. Kipp's. He says:

Bristol, Tenn., Oct. 15, 1906.
Editor Reporter-Journal, Towanda, Pa.
My Dear Sir:—Your letter of Oct. 5th was forwarded to me from Danville, Illinois, and received today at Bristol, Tenn., which explains my delay in replying.

In answer to same I have to say that Representative M. E. Lilley of Pennsylvania, gave constant attention to his legislative duties both upon committee and in the House. He was one of the most efficient members in upholding the policies of the Republican party, commanding the respect and confidence of his colleagues and of the administration. Judging from his record during the last session, with a continuance of service I am satisfied that he will prove one of the most valuable members of the House. He deserves the confidence and support of his constituents, and I hope and believe he will receive the same.

Yours very truly,
J. G. CANNON.

There are others who know something about what kind of a record Mial E. Lilley made in Congress. The following is from the Hon. Sereno E. Payne of New York, chairman of the committee of ways and means of the fifty-ninth congress. He writes:

Editor Reporter-Journal, Towanda, Pa.
Dear Sir:—I have learned that it is being alleged against Hon. M. E. Lilley that he was not in harmony with President Roosevelt during the last session of congress. I am surprised that any such statement should be made concerning Mr. Lilley, as I know he was a warm supporter of the President and of the policies which he advocated in the last congress. The President has already put on record his earnest desire that such Republicans as Mr. Lilley should be returned to the next congress. Mr. Lilley took a fine position considering the length of his service in congress, and it would be a great mistake for the Republicans of your district if he is not elected by a larger majority than before.

Yours very truly,
SERENO E. PAYNE.

It will be seen that Mr. Lilley's congressional record generally and with respect to his loyalty to President Roosevelt has the warm praise of those high in public life. The member from the Fourteenth district was daily under their eye and his worth and service were accurately noted.

The following letter is from a congressman whose reputation is national and who is a prominent member of the committee on ways and means—Hon. James E. Watson of Indiana. Congressman Watson will be remembered as the member to whom President Roosevelt wrote his famous letter in August last, presenting clearly the great national policies that would be jeopardized by the election of a Democratic congress next month. Mr. Watson says:

Rushville, Ind., Oct. 8, 1906.
Editor Reporter-Journal, Towanda, Pa.
My Dear Sir:—I have not the pleasure of an acquaintance with you, but I am informed that you are the editor of the leading Republican paper in the congressional district represented by Hon. M. E. Lilley of your city. Because of my friendship for him and my knowledge of the situation generally, I trust that I shall not be overstepping the limitations of propriety if I say something to you in behalf of my friend.

I was in Philadelphia not long ago making a speech and was informed there that Mr. Lilley's enemies were circulating the report in his district that he was not friendly to the President, that he opposed certain legislation desired by Mr. Roosevelt, and that he was generally inimical to the President's intersts. Having had actual charge of the Republican organization in the last House, and knowing accurately how every Republican stood on every one of the great measures passed by that body, I feel not only that I am in a position to state facts, but that I shall be doing Mr. Lilley a great injustice if I do not deny each and every one of these rumors. I can truthfully and cheerfully state that your representative was in full accord with the policies of the President on all of the great measures proposed and advocated by him.

It is quite true that where there are 487 men in the House and Senate to consider any question there will be differences of opinion. There were on the measures passed by the last House, but these differences have reference solely to details and not as to the object to be accomplished or the results to be achieved. On these things the Republicans in the House and in the Senate were a practical unit, the only question being as to the methods of reaching the end. Mr. Lilley firmly supported the general policies of the President, as his votes will show, and as my frequent conversations with him led me to know while congress was in session.

I only write these things for the purpose of setting him right because he ought not to be injured by these false reports.

With kind personal regards, I am
Very truly yours,
JAMES E. WATSON.

Here is another of like import, from Congressman Charles B. Landis of Indiana, who is chairman of the committe on printing of the fifty-ninth congress. As to Mr. Lilley's record and his ability the letter surely gives no uncertain sound:

Washington, D. C., Oct. 10, 1906.
Editor Reporter-Journal, Towanda, Pa.
My Dear Sir:—I am told that the candidate who is opposing the re-election of Hon. M. E. Lilley is circulating a story that he was not in harmony with President Roosevelt and the measures he advocated. I cannot understand how a man would have the audacity to make a charge of this kind. Every member of the House who knows Mr. Lilley knows that the President had no warmer supporter for the reform legislative measures he advocated than Mr. Lilley. Inded, he was looked upon in the House as one of the special champions of the President. I would add in this conection that no member on his first term took higher rank than Mr. Lilley and if he is given the chance by continuous service, he will have a distinguished career in congress.

I have the honor to remain
Very truly yours,
C. B. LANDIS.

In view of this testimony from eminent and truthful authority how absurd the story which is being circulated by the Democrats to the effect that Mr. Lilley was not a loyal supporter of President Roosevelt! It is a senseless rumor, and it is more than that—it is a malicous lie. Its circulation is largely due to Mr. Kipp's letter of acceptance, and the fact that he is in any way connected with it is not to his credit. But the lie will have little effect. The voters of the Fourtenth district know that Mr. Lilley is one of the ablest and most worthy members that ever represented them, and that in loyalty to President Roosevelt no member on the floor of the House goes before him. In the important work which President Roosevelt has in view and which he has in part outlined, he may and does count on the hearty support of our present representative. He earnestly desires the return of the present Republican members and has said so in plain words.

ROOSEVELT'S OPINION.

To change the leadership and organization of the House at this time means to bring confusion upon those who have been successfully engaged in the steady working out of a great and comprehensive scheme for the betterment of our social, industrial and civic conditions. Such a change would substitute a purposeless confusion, a violent and hurtful oscillation between the positions of the extreme radical and the extreme reactionary, for the present progress along the lines of a carefuly thought-out policy.—Extract from President Roosevelt's letter to Congressman Watson, Aug. 18, 1906.

WHAT ROOSEVELT THINKS.

If there were only partisan issues involved in this contest, I should hesitate to say anything publicly in reference thereto. But I do not feel that such is the case. On the contrary, I feel that all good citizens who have the welfare of America at heart should apreciate the immense amount that has been accomplished by the present congress organized as it is, and the urgent need of keeping this organization in power.—Extract from President Roosevelt's letter to Congressman Watson, Aug. 18, 1906.

Democratic candidate Kipp says to the voters—if you want to support Roosevelt, vote for me. No need of that, Mr. Kipp. We have already a congressman who has always supported Roosevlt, and we will re-elect him.

President Roosevelt says what he means and means what he says. And has has said as plainly as it can be said, tht he wants the next congress to be Republican. Vote for Mial E. Lilley and help make it so.

Republicans should make an especial effort to attend the mass meeting to be held at Towanda next Friday. The Republican candidates on the state ticket will be here and should have a warm greeting.

Mr. Kipp cannot go to congress unless Republicans send him there. Republicans have a candidate who has already served one session and has a most excellent record.

Young Mr. Rockefeller says that a man who wants to succeed must learn to control his temper. Good idea to learn to control coal oil as a side line.

George W. Kipp is a Democrat and wants Republicans to send him to congress. This accounts for his honeyed words for Roosevelt.

Republican mass meeting in Towanda next Friday. For particulars see announcement in another column of this paper.

Why don't candidate Kipp answer candidate Lilley about that debate? Is he afraid Mial will down him?

CAPTAIN BRYANT SPEAKS HIS MIND.

The enemies of Congressman Lilley are waging against him a scurrilous and abusive fight. Nothing is too low or mean for them to say. They are now busily circulating the story that he is a soldier-hater. One of the best known soldiers in Bradford county is Captain James Bryant of Towanda. Here is what he says as to Congressman Lilley's treatment of the old soldier:

To the voters of the Fourteenth congressional district, and particularly the soldiers:

Some evil-minded persons having put into circulation to the effect that Congressman Lilley was responsible for my defeat for sheriff, and that he did it because of a dislike to the soldiers in general, I take this opportunity of saying that I have not considered that Mr. Lilley was in any way responsible for my defeat. On the contrary he has always been my friend. He has rendered me valuable assistance in the prosecution of my pension claim, and I have personal knowledge of the fact that the soldiers have no better friend in congress than he is. I shall vote for him and firmly believe he will be elected.

Very truly yours,
JAMES BRYANT.

It will now be in order for the Kipp newspapers to abuse Captain Bryant for being Mr. Lilley's friend.

The attempt of the Kipp managers and editors to make people believe that Congressman Lilley is not and has not been a friend of the soldiers is one of the most despicable features of the campaign that for untruthfulness and unfairness, personal abuse and scurrility has had few equals. If a fair-minded examination of Mr. Lilley's record with respect to his treatment of the soldiers be made what will be disclosed? It will be found that the soldiers of the district have never received more courteous and efficient help from their congressman than from him, that no congressman ever devoted more time to their interests or aided them more effectively or more willingly in the furtherance of their pension claims than he. His treatment of the soldiers is one of the strongest and most creditable parts of Mr. Lilley's record while in congress. In this, as in the matter of his support of Roosevelt, his detractors have attacked him where he is best fortified, and he rejoices to return the fire..

Open the books, examine the record, find out all you can, enemies and defamers of Mr. Lilley, about how he has treated the old soldier, and then report if you dare.

You won't report, nor will you investigate the matter on its merits. All that you will do, or dare do, or want to do, is to lie about it. You know the truth in the matter would help Mr. Lilley, and so you hide the truth and obscure the facts. A lie is your weapon. It will react on you.

Mr. Lilley began his term on March 4, 1895, and to date he has given personal attention to 360 pension claims. This has involved a vast amount of labor, the writing of thousands of letters, and in some cases spending days at a time in the pension office looking up the records and briefing the testimony. Out of this number he has been successful in 156 claims, and 175 are still pending; 29 have been finally rejected. Let his detractors name a congressman who can show a better record of service in behalf of the soldiers. Those who are familiar with this kind of work will readily understand the amount of time Mr. Lilley has given to it.

These are the facts with respect to Congressman Lilley's treatment of the soldiers. We have presented them, hoping they will fall under the eye of those who have been told that he is a soldier-hater. These facts will not stop the liar's tongue or pen, but they will show fair-minded men the way the Democratic fight for congress is being conducted.

A MATCH FOR EVERYBODY.

An estimate of the use of matches gives prodigious results. As a basis of calculation for the United States, some English figures just made public would give an approximation of about fifteen hundred million consumed in a single day. The average in England is about twelve a day for every man, woman and child. It is calculated that cigarettes, and users of tobacco generally, account for the largest consumption. The English consumption of wood is ninety tons per day, or about 35,000 tons a year.

Notwithstanding the manufacture in the United States, great quantities are imported from Sweden and Austria. The wage workers in the home industry, judging from the competition abroad, have it for their interest to not only "stand pat" to greater protection, instead of listening to the idle agitation of revision on a lower so-called tariff or of Democratic no protection at all. A live home-made match, protected by the Republican elephant, is safer for the wage worker than one protected by the Democratic donkey.

WHICH ONE, MR. KIPP?

We will have to ask the Democratic candidate a question we have asked him before, because he hasn't answered and we want to know. And there are others who want to know.

If you should be elected to congress which would you vote for for Speaker of the House—a Republican or a Democrat? The question arises most naturally because you are telling the people how loyal you are to Roosevelt and how you want to support him. If you don't answer this question, Mr. Kipp, we shall know you are afraid to answer it.

Candidate Kipp is down on the corporations in his letter of acceptance, but he is pretty well up on them when it comes to holding stock.

UNDER WHICH FLAG?

The election of congressmen this year will turn in a peculiar degree on the endorsement of the President. The issue will be nominally congress and really Roosevelt. In an exceptional degree the President has moulded congress and congress reflects the President. The verdict on the one will be the verdict on the other. The election of the next congress will involve both a question of approval and an issue of continued support. If the country believes in what the President has induced congress to do, and if it wants another congress which will be equally responsive during the second half of his administration, it will know what to do.

It would be impossible to name another session of congress where so much important legislation has been enacted, nor one where the legislation bore so distinctly the stamp of the executive hand. The congressional elections, therefore, will be a vote of approval or disapproval. They will be a pledge or a refusal of support. The voice of the legislation is the voice of congress but the controlling hand is the hand of the President. And the voters of this congressional district will answer one week from next Tuesday whether they are with him. If they are with him they will vote for the Republican nominee for congress who loyally supported the President in all his reform measures and who will continue to do so if he is re-elected.

Republicans of Bradford, the issue is plain, so plain that no fair-minded man can mistake its import or his own duty. Will you vote for Mr. Lilley whose record in congress shows that he has been your faithful representative and the President's loyal supporter, or the man who has always been allied with his enemies and whose only claim to your support is a promise. Are you ready to take tnis promise to do things in preference to the actual performance? Is it not better to trust those who have been tried than those who pretend?

STUDENTS ALL "DOCTORS."

The Harvard Medical school has begun an entirely new practice in medical education by opening all its courses to special students in all departments of the university. Hitherto the work of the medical school there has, as with medical schools in Philadelphia,been open only to candidates for the degree of medicine. The policy now adopted at Cambridge turns the entire medical education there into a part of the special and postgraduate training of Harvard university. When it is remembered that the school in addition opens its doors only to those with a college degree, has housed itself in buildings which have cost $5,000,000 and has very considerably increased both the quantity and quality of the work required for graduation it will be seen how complete a revolution in medical education the new buildings at Harvard record and symbolize. Medical study is at present too much circumscribed by tradition and too little a part of general university study, Nowhere is it more necessary to recognize that medicine is only a part of learining and much of its training valuable as education to men in many fields.—Philadelphia Press.

DEMOCRATIC LOGIC.

Roosevelt says he wants Republican congressmen re-elected. But Democratic candidate, George W. Kipp, is doing his best to make voters believe that the best way to support Roosevelt is to turn down Congressman Lilley, who has been a firm supporter of Roosevelt, and vote for him—Kipp. This is Democratic logic. Tell your horse about it and see him laugh.

The annual report of the Federal Mining and Smelting company for the year ending Aug. 31 shows an increase of net earnings of more than 100 per cent., the figures being $2,685,300, compared with $1,242,698 in 1905.

It will be to learn that the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice recommend, in the strongest terms possible, each and every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, "liver complaint," torpid liver, or biliousness, chronic bowel affections, and all catarrhal diseases of whatever region, name or nature. It is also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of catarrhal affections and their resultants, as bronchial, throat and lung disease (except consumption) accompanied with severe coughs. It is not so good for acute colds and coughs, but for lingering, or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing perfect cures. It contains Black Cherry bark, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone root, Mandrake root and Queen's root—all of which are highly praised as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by such eminent medical writers and teachers as Prof. Bartholow, of Jefferson Med. College; Prof. Hare, of the Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago, and scores of others equally eminent in their several schools of practice.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for like purposes, that has any such professional endorsement—worth more than any number of ordinary testimonials. Open publicity of its formula is the best possible guaranty of its merits. A glance at this published formula will show that "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no poisonous, harmful or habit-forming drugs and no alcohol—chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead. Glycerine is entirely unobjectionable and besides is a most useful agent in the cure of all stomach as well as bronchial, throat and lung affections. There is the highest medical authority for its use in all such cases. The "Discovery" is a concentrated glyceric extract of native, medicinal roots and is safe and reliable.

AS TO SCENERY.

Remarking upon the fact that "Harrisburg is bragging about the Autumnal glories of her mountains," the Pittston Gazette makes the assertion that in the matter of Autumnal scenery "the Wyoming valley doesn't take a back seat for any section of this broad land." And it is scarcely necessary for the Tribune to say that the mountain scenery in the vicinity of Altoona, unsurpassed at any season, is far beyond description during the last weeks of October.—Altoona Tribune.

We are not of a boastful nature in Towanda, but we've heard people from both Altoona and Pittston speak in praise of this portion of the beautiful Susquehanna valley, and its majestic hills. The last few days have indeed been rare ones here, to those appreciative souls who have gone out appreciate souls who have gone out to see Nature.

It is now pretty generally admitted that Mr. Brisbane writes Mr. Heart's speeches, but so far no one has been kind enough to allege that he really believes them.

The best way to sustain President Roosevelt and his progressive policy is by the election of Republican congressmen to the next congress. This way beats candidate Kipp's proposition to death.

It is vital that the Republican party should remain in power for the coming two years in order that the legislative and executive departments of the government may continue in harmony. The way to keep the Republican party in power is to elect Republican congressmen.

The plea of candidate Kipp that the way to support President Roosevelt is to elect Democratic congressmen is a good joke. The voters regard it as such. Wait till you see the size of the Pennsylvania delegation.

PETER HURLEY'S DEATH RESULTS FROM POISON.

Mental Derangement Brought Violent Effort at Self Destruction.

Peter Hurley, of State Road, whose rash attempt to poison himself, while suffering from the effects of a long illness, had been told in this paper, died at his home Thursday afternoon. Death came as a welcome relief, for it is believed by his physician that, had he recovered, his mind would have been permantly affected by the shock of his violent efforts to do away with himself.

The circumstances of Hurley's death are particularly sad; the barn he attempted to burn was that of one of his most intimate friends, and no reason, other than a lapse, is assigned for the act. When he found that the large dose of Paris green he had taken would not necessarily end his life speedily, the deranged man is said to have cut and slashed at himself in a fearful manner until overpowered. Before the illness of this Autumn, Peter Hurley was one of the best farmers and most progressive residents of the settlement, and the relatives have the sympathy of all their friends.

BLACK TEAM STOLEN.

Tyrone Liveryman Offers Reward of Fifty Dollars.

S. S. Stanley, a liveryman from Tyrone, was in Towanda Sunday making an effort to trace a fine team of black horses, which he says were stolen by a man who came to his stables and hired a double rig on Wednesday of last week, and of whom he has seen nothing since. The rig is believed to have been seen at New Albany Sunday, and while here Mr. Stanley decided to offer a reward of $50 for the return of his horses and rig.

The property is described as follows: A pair of black horses, five and sevn years old, white star in forehad of each; weight 950 pounds each; chafe scar on neck of off horse; hitched to Youngstown black top-buggy, red runing gear, black pole. The thief is described as 40 years old, six fet tall, weight about 170, sandy moustache, sometimes walks with a cane; believed to have been seen at New Albany Sunday, Oct. 21.

If found, reward may be had by making arrest and communicating with Guy C. Hollon, at Towanda, Pa.

ITALIAN KILLED BY TRAIN.

Fatal Accident on Lackawanna Railroad Near Litchfield Tuesday.

While at work as a section hand, an Italian named Gatana, was struck and killed by a D., L. and W. passenger train near Litchfield, this county, on Tuesday. The young man failed to step aside soon enough and was hurled some distance when struck by the flying locomotive.

The body was placed on a train and taken to Waverly, and then taken to the undertaking rooms of E. S. Hanford where it now awaits the action of his friends.

B. and S. Railroad to Buffalo.

The Buffalo and Susquehanna railroad announce the completion of their road into Buffalo and the institution of passenger service to and from that city by Dec. 1. Two new passenger trains will be put into service. One train will leave Buffalo for Galeton in the morning and return in the evening. The other passenger train to run on reverse schedule, leaving Galeton for Buffalo in the morning and returning in the evening.

A Lucky Strike.

On Wednesday of last week, while George, the seven years old son of M. S. Every of Burlington, with other children, was playing "blind man's buff," he walked off the the Sugar Creek bridge, near Burlington and fell into the stream, 16 feet below, striking in about 18 inches of water. When asked if the fall did not hurt him, the lad replied, "No, but the water was awfully cold."

Motor Boats Out.

Taking advantage of the high water Sunday, "Quince" Kline fired up his two motor boats and sped about the river for an hour or two. The start of the boats and one or two brushes of sped between the big Columbia and the smaller boat, in which the latter came out winner every time attracted the attention of bridge pdestrians for a time.

High School Anniversary.

The alumni association of the Waverly High school are preparing to celebrate the 50th anniversary of that institution. ## LOCAL DELEGATES TO SYRACUSE CONVENTION.

Epworth League Represented at Big Missionary Gathering.

Dr. and Mrs. O. A. Houghton, Miss Myra Smith and Miss Florence Decker are in the city of Syracuse, where they went as delegates from the Epworth League of the Towanda Methodist church to attend the Central New York Bible Study and Missionary conference, to be held in that city on Thursday and Friday.

This annual gathering of Methodist pastors and church workers is one of the largest and most important events of the year in church life. The convention is carried on just as a secular gathering of persons interested in any special line of work conduct their conventions, and special arangements for the care and entertainment of delegates make this one of the best church conventions of the calendar. Membership in the conference has been limited to 600, each district in the Central New York conference, of which Towanda is a part, being given 100 tickets.

Morning. — Bible study, mission classes. Each district contingent will be taught by its own representative who will go to Silver Bay for training. "Personal Evangelism," Mrs. S. M. Sayford, a layman of Boston known as "The College Evangelist." An inspirational address.

Afternoon—"Christian Stewardship," to be presented by Dr. O. P. Gifford, of Buffalo, Rev. G. Campbell White, W. Stanley Roberts, a leading lawyer of Cincinnati, treasurer of Wesley chapel, and others. Full addresses by great missionaries.

Evenings will be occupied by the greatest speakers available. It is expected to have three or four bishops, Dr. A. B. Leonard, corresponding secretary of the Missionary society, and several others.

The campaign after the conference is to organize mission study classes on every charge and interest all our young people in a forward movement for missions.

TOOK CHEAP WHIP, GIVEN COSTLY FINE.

Charles Justin's Sentence May Serve as Example for Petty Thieves.

When Charles Justin purloined a whip from a rig at McMahon's hotel last week he did not stop to think that he might be made an example of. Constable Charles McCracken was called, and placed Justin under arrest.

Brought before Justice John Meredith, the offender entered a plea of guilty and the sentence of the court was that the prisoner be sent to jail for six months, pay a fine of $25, costs of the action, too, and return the stolen whip to its owner. All of these directions were carried out, and Justin now languishes in the county dungeon.

The local authorities have determined to put an end to the almost endlesfs repetition of petty thievery which goes on daily. Farmers coming into the borough have reported losses of blankets, whips, and other articles left in their wagons. The thieves nnally became bold enough to take even parts of the harness on the horses. This, the officers declare, is going too far and hence the stiff sentence imposed on poor Justin. Others who have need of the warning may profit by a careful perusal of this report of Justin's present plight.

PREACHED ABLE SERMON.

Rev. Thomas B. Payne a Speaker at Nicholson.

The Rev. Thomas B. Payne of Scranton, who is now visiting in Towanda, was one of the principal speakers at the 72nd annual session of the Susquehanna association of Universalists which convened at the Church of Our Savior in Nicholson last week.

The association is composed of the churches of Brooklyn, Gibson, Hopbottom, Fleetville, Kingsley, Nicholson, Scranton and Wilkes-Barre.

The attendance was good considering the weather which was very inclement.

The association was called to order by the president, E. T. Davis of Scranton at 11 o'clock on Wednesday.

Wednesday afteroon Rev. T. B. Payne of Scranton, preached a very able sermon, taking for his topic the lives of the two founders of the Universalist church—John Murray and Thomas Potter. He told the story of how Potter had founded a meeting house on the New Jersey coast, and, who while unable to read or write had by deep thought and study of the Bible, which his wife read to him, had become convinced of the doctrine that God was the Father of the whole human family and that he, in time, would draw all men unto Him.

Capitol Talk.

It would be hard to find in Pennsylvania a man or woman able to read English who does not know all about the cost and quality of the new capitol at Harrisburg. Newspaper advertising has spread the intelligence from the Delaware to the Allegheny. The merchant who has reason to be proud of the prices and quality of his wares has at his command the same means of making them a subject of public discussion. Persistent advertising will do it.—Philadelphia Record.

Republican Meeting at New Albany

A Republican mass meeting will be held at New Albany on Thursday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, which will be addressed by Congressman Mial E. Lilley and Hon. L. T. Hoyt of Athens. Thde New Albany band will furnish music.

SOME HIGH SCHOOL STATISTICS AND NOTES.

Some Interesting Facts and Figures Regarding Local Education.

From reports and classification made at the Towanda High school, Prof. Humphries has taken the follow interesting statistics: The High school enrollment is 132, of which, strange to say, 66 are boys and 66 are girls. There are 44 non-resident pupils in the High school alone exclusive of the grades. The classes of the High school are made up of 18 seniors, 21 juniors, 32 sophomores, 61 freshmen.

Of the various studies, 132 are taking English, 59 elementary algebra, 14 higher algebra, 34 geometry, 14 trigonometery, 31 chemistry, and 20 bookkeeping; business arithmetic, 25; German, 42; Latin, 62; ancient history, 14; English history, 26; general history, 64.

In the grades the total enrollment is 543, distributed as follows: First ward 73, Second ward 242, Third ward 228. The total for all schols is 674, a decrease of 50 as compared with last year's enrollment.

The work of the first and second grades has been arranged as follows: First grade, first section, 9-10:30 in the morning; second section 10:30-12 in the morning; both sections 1:30-2:30 in the afternoon. Second grade, 9 to 11:30 o'clock and 2:30 to 4:00 o'clock.

This plan gives the grades fully as much of the teacher's direct instruction through recitations as formerly under usual conditions of first and second grades, but it does not confine the younger pupils so long in school.

The following new rules and regulations were unanimously adopted by the school board at its last regular meeting:

All pupils who have been absent an aggregate of 20 days or more during any year shall not be promoted except by examination in all the studies of that year.

Pupils who through failure to repeat the work of the eighth grade shall be promoted by examination only.

Members of the graduating class of the High school must have to secure a diploma, a general average of 80 for the year's work, and no mark below 70 in any subject.

Degree Team in Elmira.

The officers and members of the degree team of the Tioga Legion of the N. P. L. of Athens, went to Elmira Tuesday afternoon, where in the evening they assisted in the initatory work of a legion in that city. This is the same team that came to Towanda several days ago to attend a meeting. The team includes several people well known in Towanda, and is made up as follows: Past-president, M. W. Pearl, and supporters, Elizabeth VanNess and C. B. Tyrrell; president, J. M. Ashton, and supporters, Maud Page and C. Jakeway; vice president, Grace Bressler, and supporters, Frances Cole, and H. B. Bressler; chaplain, Christiana Boehm, acting, and supporters, May Carmon and J. F. Griswold, and substitute, Russel Miller, Elizabeth MacMorran, conductor and drill master, F. C. Page, and organist, Myrta Bird.

Flickinger—Clayton.

George Flickinger of Sayre and Mrs. Anna Clayton of Athens were married at 8 o'clock Thursday evening at the parsonage of the Lutheran church in Sayre by Rev. E. M. Beysher. They were unaccompanied when they went to the parsonage and after the ceremony they left for a wedding trip to New York. They will reside on Chestnut street in Athens. Mr. Flickinger has been a resident of Sayre for many ears and is an employee of the Lehigh shops.—Athens News.

Fire at Coryland.

The explosion of a lantern about 7 o'clock Wednesday morning of last week, caused the destruction of W. T. Gustin's fine large barn and granary at Coryland. The loss will approximate $4,000; insurance $1,000 in the grange. Among the contents consumed were 250 bushels each of oats and buckwheat, 21,000 shingles, 75 tons of hay, a number of wagons, carriages, etc. The house was saved with difficulty. Mr. Gustin will dispose of his live stock at auction.

More Than a Centenarian.

Milton lost its oldest inhabitnat last week, in the person of Grandmother Hunter, as she was familiarly called, after an illness of about six months. Mrs. Hunter was born April 3, 1800, so that if she had lived six months more she would have passed the age of 107 years. She was anative of Adams county, but had lived in Milton for many years.

Chief Miller Home.

After several days' vacation spent in the woods of Tioga county, on a hunting expedition, Chief of Police Miller has returned to his duties. The chief says he had a pleasant time, but when questioned about the game, he maintained a dignified silence, apparently under the impression that his marksmanship was being referred to.

Turner House Occupied.

John Kegerris of Warren, Warren county, has rented the D. H. Turner house on York avenue and took possession yesterday morning. Mr. Kegerris is telegraph operator and business manager of the United Pipe Line company of Warren.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Easton of Ridgebury, announce the engagement of their daughter Alice, to Charles Brown of Big Flats. The young people are well known in their respective towns, and have many friends.

GENERAL RAINS MAKE RIVER RISE.

Rise of Three Feet Does Not Interfere With Bridge Work.

The general rains of Saturday and Sunday has caused the Susquehanna to assume its dark brown hue and to raise several feet. Several owners of small boats along the banks made hurried excursions to see if the high water had carried off their property, and in several instances, the boats were carted away for Winter storage.

The rise of the river held off quite long enough to prevent any interference with the construction work at North Towanda station, where Mutchler & Son have only about two weeks more of actual work.

WILL ENTER POLITICS.

Joint Legislative Board of Railroad Employes Takes Action.

Announcements come from Harrisburg, that, at a joint meeting held there on Friday the joint legislative board of railroad employes in Pennsylvania, representing the Order of Railway Telegraphers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Order of Railway Conductors elected the following officers: Thomas G. Beaver of the telegraphers, Lewiston, president; L. LeBarre, of the engineers, East Mauch Chunk, vice president; W. O'Malley of the firemen, Philadelphia, secretary; W. J. Zerby of the conductors, Mauch Chunk, treasurer; John S. Hemphill of the firemen, J. J. McLaughlin of the telegraphers, both of Philadelphia, and O. Irwin of the conductors, Newcastle, Pa., were elected members of the joint executive board.

This organization has registered the name of the union labor party and will join hands with the Mine Workers' union, American Federation of Labor and State Grange in politics and make an earnest effort to have laws enacted at the next session of the Pennsylvania legislature. Among these will be an act providing for the licensing of all railway employes who are in any way responsible for the handling of trains or the intrepretation of train orders, the examinations and certificate of fitness and ability to be obtained in much the same manner as those of the medical fraternity at the present time.

WELLSBORO'S OLDEST RESIDENT

Mrs. Sarah Smith Celebrates Her 99th Birthday—A Remarkable Woman.

The 99th birthday of Mrs. Sarah Smith, Wellsboro's oldest resident, was celebrated recently at the home of her only surviving child James Herbert. Four generations were represented at the gathering, which was a very enjoyable affair. A bounteous dinner was served and the aged and venerable lady was the recipient of a number of valuable gifts.

Mrs. Smith was born in Pottsville, Pa., Oct. 12, 1807. At the age of 16 she married James Herbert, who died in 1850. Some years later she married Samuel Smith of Wellsboro, also deceased.

She is said to be the oldest resident of Tioga county, but is yet active and industrious. She does housework and sews, and on pleasant Sundays walks to church. She has been a member of the Methodist church for 76 years, and is in her pew nearly every Sunday.

Her son, James Herbert, is himself lacking but two months of being 70 years old. He was a soldier in the Civil war and was a member of the famous "Bucktails."—Wellsboro Gazette.

FitzHarris—Cahill.

Miss Katherine Cahill and William FitzHarris, two popular young people who reside in Sayre were married at noon Oct. 17, at the Church of the Ephiphany.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. L. Shanley in the presence of a large number of the friends of the contracting parties. James Cahill, brother of the bride, was groomsman and Miss Sadie FitzHarris, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. FitzHarris were driven to the Lehigh station and boarded train No. 4 for a wedding trip to Wilkes-Barre, Scranton, Washington and Richmond. They will return to Sayre to reside. Mr. FitzHarris has for the past five years been employed as a plumber in the Lehigh shops and he and his bride has many friends who will join in wishing them a prosperous future.

Whyte—VanDermark.

Miss Nellie VanDermark of Mildred and Henry F. Whyte of Towanda, were married on Wednesday of last week at Dushore, by Rev. Mr. Hoover. After a short wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Buffalo, they will spend a few days in Towanda, the guests of Mr. Whyte's parents and the bride's brother. They will reside at Mildred, where the groom is telegraph operator for the Lehigh Valley railroad. Both are well known and popular young people and will receive the best wishes of many friends.

CAR LOAD OF CORN CAUSES CONTENTION.

Frank West of Wyalusing, Says Scattergoods' Grain Was Musty.

In the suit which was brought by Frank West of Wyalusing, against S. F. Scattergood & Co., the arbitrators, after hearing the evidence, awarded the plaintiff $285, and placed the costs of the action upon him.

The case grew out of the sale of a carload of corn which West ordered froem the Scattergoods, who are grain dealers. When the shipment arrived and had been examined, the corn, it is alleged, was hot and musty and not in condition to be accepted. A correspondence was commenced, which lasted over a period of some days, and finally West is said to have used a portion of the carload. Learning this, the commission merchants refused to replace the damaged corn, and the suit resulted. The Scattergood house, through its representative, declares that an appeal will be made from the arbitrators' decision. G. A. Dayton, Perry F. Estelle and J. L. Ellsworth were the arbitrators who heard the case.

Foley—Weller.

Miss Laura Weller, daughter of F. E. Weller, South street, and John Foley were married at the Parochial residence of St. Joseph's church, Athens, on Oct. 17, by Rev. F.M.O'Rourke. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Foley will return to Athens and reside on South street.—Athens News.

The Thanksgiving Theatricals.

Those in charge of the preparatory work for the Thanksgiving amateur theatricals have begun plans to make this annual feature of Towanda social life more attractive than ever. No announcement is to be made yet, however.

SCRANTON TO BERNICE.

Promoters of Electric Road Still Looking the Ground Over.

W. L. Connell, a prominent Scrantonian who owns coal lands at Bernice and is also largely interested in the electric road that is building from Scranton to Factoryville, is in frequent correspondence with some of the business men in Tunkhannock regarding the possibilities of securing right of way to run the road to Bernice by way of Tunkhannock. He says that a survey has been made from the Western side of the river through to Bernice, and that a tentative site for a bridge to run diagonally across the river at a point near Tunkhannock creek has been considered.

He plainly states that such a road would not pay without legislative enactment permitting it, in common with other roads, to carry freight.

Can't Do It In Waverly.

James Walker, a Towanda sport, sauntered into Waverly Thursday night and was after a good time. The program of his amusement included some "lemonade" and the lemons used being a little too strong, he was soon unable to navigate his anatomy on the village streets and one of the night officers took him in charge and placed him in the lock-up.—Sayre Times.

Improving Ulster Bridge.

County Surveyor Hiram Bull has spent several days laying out work to be done upon the Ulster approach of the Ulster bridge. A quantity of stone is to be placed there by the county commissioners, to level the approach as well as to fortify the bridge against the ravages of possible high water. The improvement is one which will be welcomed by the users of this well traveled structure.

SCHOOL TAX ISSUE.

Stuart Would Further Relieve the Burdens of Local Taxation.

A POPULAR PROPOSITION.

Pennsylvania Has Been Most Liberal in Appropriations for Educational Purposes—The Keynote of Taxation Reform—Some Figures.

The ringing declarations of Edwin S. Stuart, Republican nominee for Governor, in favor of the enactment of legislation to abolish local taxation for public school purposes and in favor of giving greater state aid for the building of good roads and for charitable purposes, have met with popular favor. His statement made in Jefferson county that he is opposed to the carrying of a large surplus in the state treasury has also resulted in expressions of approval in many quarters.

Candidate Stuart's views regarding the school tax are especially pleasing to the members of the Pennsylvania State Association for the Abolition of the School Tax.

Theodore P. Rynder, secretary of this organization, says:

"We have an organization extending over the state having for its purpose the abolition of the school tax on real estate thereby relieving especially small farmers and city home owners of their heaviest tax burden and establishing the principle that public revenues must pay for the public education.

"The organization is known as the Pennsylvania State Association for the Abolition of the School Tax.

"It has a large number of clubs in various sections of the state. It has the support of some hold-over senators. It has many candidates for assembly pledged to the measure.

"Candidate Stuart has indorsed it in at least two public speeches.

"The measure we propose would enable Pennsylvania to go on with its great system of education and give to every child within the commonwealth its just dues—an education that would fit it for the battle of life. It would solve the problem of adequate wages for teachers and adequate schools for pupils.

An Abundance of State Revenue.

"The only question ever raised has been whether the state has the financial means to do it. As briefly as may be, let me answer that question.

"The total cost for the whole state of teachers' wages, text books and supplies for last year was $15,537,020.

"To meet that bill the state now has a surplus of over $11,250,000, which by the beginning of the next fiscal year will reach at least $16,750,000. Then there can be added to this the $4,500,000 of annual current income, which during the last two years has been applied to equipping our new capitol, as well as some additional amounts that went into construction, and also the amount heretofore appropriated for the sinking fund. This $11,250,000 surplus, plus $5,500,000 regular school appropriation, plus $4,500,000 new capitol expenditures, will give us $21,250,000 with which to pay the $15,537,020 of teachers' wages, text books and supplies, and leave $6,000,000 and all interest and additional revenues to be added to apply to the ordinary expenses.

"There are abundant sources of new revenue justly used in other states that can be availed of by the next legislature should any new revenue be needed.

"Mr. Stuart's pronounced stand on this issue will, in the event of his election, enable the state to take this great advance step in public education and make Pennsylvania the leader in intelligence, as she is in material prosperity."

What Counties Got Last Year.

While Mr. Stuart is advocating further relief of local taxation from the general revenues of the state, he does not overlook the fact that enormous sums are now being paid annually from the state treasury to the several counties for public school purposes.

The records of the state treasury show that $7,832,350, mainly collected by the state in taxes from corporations, was paid to the several counties during the year 1905.

Pennsylvania Leads the Way.

Pennsylvania has, without question, the best public school system in the world.

No state in the Union appropriates anything like the sum of money which is annually set aside by this commonwealth for the maintenance and development of the free schools. No state makes anything like the liberal provisions made by Pennsylvania for the education and training of teachers and the conduct of state normal schools and township high schools.

The cause of popular education has ever been fostered by the Republican party, and that party has been instrumental in the passage through the legislature of laws which have served to strengthen and to upbuild the magnificent free school system which has been the subject of universal commendation.

The highest amount ever appropriated by the Democratic party for the public schools of Pennsylvania was $280,000 per annum, from 1857 to 1860.

From that period there has been a steady and permanent increase in the annual appropriations for public schools, until in 1905 there was paid out a total of $8,600,264 for educational purposes, or over 35 per cent. of the entire revenue of the commonwealth.

This includes appropriations made to the support of the soldiers' orphans' schools, the county superintendents, the Department of Public Instruction, and for normal schools and township high schools.

Keynote of Taxation Reform.

Mr. Stuart certainly sounded the keynote for taxation reform when he declared that the time had come when the state could accept the policy of speedily relieving farms and homes of the state from all taxation for the support of schools, and ultimately lead to the relief of farms and homes from taxation for the support of our chief highways.

This declaration of the Republican candidate for Governor is not a mere campaign invention.

It is in complete accord with the policy of the Republican party in Pennsylvania, that now assumes a large portion of the burden of sustaining the schools, for which we expend many millions annually in state appropriations, and the last legislature inaugurated the policy of placing the chief highways of the state under the care of the commonwealth, to be improved by direct appropriations from the treasury.

Protecting the Farmer.

Not only is this policy of relieving our farms and homes from taxation for schools and roads in accord with the declared policy of the party, but it is founded on the soundest principles of just taxation. Our farms and homes are less productive to their owners than any other channel from which the state draws its revenues. It was necessary to tax them for the support of the state many years ago, when there were few other sources of revenue, but when the Republican party came into power in 1860, it gave generous encouragement to capital and energy to develop our hidden wealth, and under that policy, with corporate enterprises now reaching into almost every community of the state, usually realizing profits vastly in excess of the profits of the farms and homes, every consideration of justice calls for the gradual and early release of farms and homes from the support of the schools and the improvement of our chief roads.

The Republican party inaugurated that policy a generation ago when the state was yet largely in debt, by releasing the farms and homes of the state from taxation for state purposes, and has consistently followed that policy by steadily increasing appropriations to schools, and thus lessening local taxation for that purpose, and now has established the policy of improving our highways by direct appropriations from the treasury.

Corporations have not only larger profits, as a rule, than are realized from farms and homes, but they have special privileges in their franchises limiting their liabilities for debts in case of failure, and in many other ways simplifying their business affairs, while the farmer and all private citizens are responsible for the last dollar of debt they may incur.

Under Republican rule the entire debt of the state has been paid, with equal, or quite and possibly more than, the amount of the principal paid in interest, as the interest for many years exceeded two millions of dollars annually. Thus, we have drawn from the revenues of the state nearly eighty millions to liquidate our debt. We have state asylums for the insane in every section of the state, with homes for the helpless, reformatories for vicious youth and hospitals founded chiefly by state appropriations in many of the inland cities and leading towns of the commonwealth.

A Proud Republican Record.

The Republican party in Pennsylvania has emphasized the patriotic and philanthropic aims of its people by expending many millions for the support of the orphans of soldiers who gave their lives in the terrible struggle for the maintenance of the Union, and it has made the school system the grandest and most beneficient to be found in any state or country of the world.

In addition to vast expenditures in the payment of the public debt, in the construction of asylums and homes and hospitals, in the education and care of the orphans of the soldiers, in the advancement of our school system, which is accepted by all as the grandest in the country, Pennsylvania under Republican rule has a surplus of many millions in the treasury; and with all the extraordinary expenditures paid and the steady increase in the revenues of the state, the time has come when the Republican candidate for Governor can well declare to the people of the state that the homes and farms shall be speedily relieved from taxation for schools and ultimately for the construction of our chief highways.

Every consideration of justice in taxation demands it, and the policy of the Republican party has made it possible to bring this great reform in our tax system to its grand consummation.

Heavy Damage by Fire at Altoona, Pa.

Altoona, Pa., Oct. 19.—One of the most serious fires that has ever occurred in Altoona started in the new five story furniture building of Oliver Rothert, and before it was brought under control property to the amount of nearly half a million dollars was destroyed. The Rothert building and the new theater of I. C. Mishler were entirely destroyed, and the building of the Order of Elks, which had not yet been completed, was badly damaged. The Altoona Trust company structure and the office building of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, which are on the opposite side of the street, were damaged slightly by fire and water.

VICTORY IS ASSURED.

Republicans Will Sweep the State at the Coming Election.

SPEAKER CANNON'S OPINION.

He Tells Pennsylvanias They Have a Great Duty to Perform—Roosevelt Interested—Itinerary of the State Candidates.

[Special Correspondence.]

Philadelphia, October 23.

With but two weeks more of campaigning before them, the Republican state candidates have every reason to look forward with confidence to a great victory at the polls on November 6.

They have covered nearly every county in the state, and have met with the most enthusiastic greetings everywhere they have been. In many cases the crowds exceeded those that would ordinarily be got together in a presidential campaign.

Edwin S. Stuart, the nominee for Governor, by his frank and manly utterances, has won the hearts of his fellow citizens. They know of his splendid record as Mayor of Philadelphia, of the many testimonials that come to him from all sources after his retirement from that office, and they believe he will keep every pledge he has made in the present canvass.

Roosevelt Is Interested.

There has been no more gratifying feature of the campaign than the enthusiastic interest taken in the outcome of the Pennsylvania election by President Roosevelt and members of his cabinet.

While it would be contrary to precedent to have either the President or a member of his cabinet refer specifically in commendation of a candidate for a state office in the heat of a campaign, yet the fact that the Secretary of the Treasury has already spoken twice in Pennsylvania, and that Attorney General Moody has accepted an invitation to speak in Philadelphia on October 29, clearly indicates the attitude of the national administration toward the Republican cause in the Keystone state.

While these cabinet officers confine their remarks to national issues, they emphasize the importance of Republicans standing loyally by their party, so that unbroken lines shall be presented to the common enemy, the Democratic party, which in Pennsylvania has as an ally the so-called Lincoln outfit.

Knox Praises Stuart.

Senator Philander C. Knox, who has been in frequent conference with the President recently, and who knows how deeply he is concerned over the present political situation, will preside at the great meeting in Philadelphia at which Attorney General Moody will be the star orator.

"I believe that Edwin S. Stuart and the entire Republican ticket in Pennsylvania will be elected," predicted Senator Knox a few days ago. "I know Mr. Stuart to be a man of honor, a man in whom the Republicans of Pennsylvania can place full faith in his pledges to protect the interests of the commonwealth upon his election to the Governorship."

Colonel Wesley R. Andrews, chairman of the Republican state committee, is receiving valuable assistance from Chairman Sherman, of the national Republican congressional committee. Some of the strongest speakers on the staff of the national committee have been assigned to Pennsylvania.

What Uncle Joe Cannon Said.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon, speaker of the National House of Representatives, figured in an immense Republican demonstration in the Quaker City last week, addressing three mass meetings on the same evening.

"Uncle Joe" made this declaration from the platform:

"On November 6 I hope to hear that Pennsylvania has given 100,000 majority for Stuart and the whole Republican ticket.

"I am glad to indorse one of your own citizens who is the candidate for Governor. Edwin S. Stuart, I am proud to say, is both a personal and political friend of mine.

"There is not money enough in the whole commonwealth of Pennsylvania—nay, in the whole world—to swerve the integrity of the candidates on the Republican ticket.

"THEY ARE WORTHY OF YOUR VOTE.

"The Lincoln Party is being used by Democrats to aid them in usurping the balance of power in the Republican party. They falsely claim to be followers of Roosevelt. The Democratic platform adopted two months ago is not in accord with the principles of the President.

"Therefore, how can the Lincoln Party stand for the idea of Roosevelt?

"If you want to hurt our institutions and our industries, turn down the Republican Party and the Republican ticket.

"Under these circumstances you will hurt production where you are now running with energy and hope and enterprise, and you will stop for the next two years, or you will merely mark time or you will advance but slowly.

"It is up to you."

The following itinerary has been arranged by Colonel Daniel B. Shepp, chief of the bureau of speakers of the Republican state committee for Candidate Stuart and his colleagues for the balance of the campaign:

Tuesday, October 23, South Bethlehem, Bethlehem and Allentown; Wednesday, October 24, Lehighton and Wilkes-Barre; Thursday, October 25, Montrose and Tunkhannock; Friday, October 26, Towanda and Athens; Saturday, October 27, Carbondale and Scranton; Monday, October 29, Doylestown and Bristol; Tuesday, October 30, Media and Chester; Wednesday, October 31, West Chester; Thursday, November 1, Lancaster; Friday, November 2, Norristown; Saturday, November 3, Lebanon.

PENNSYLVANIA LEADS IN CUT GLASS INDUSTRY.

And Honesdale, Wayne County, Leads the State in Manufacture.

In the manufacture of cut glass in this country, Philadelphia probably holds second place, with an output of $550,000 a year. Honesdale, in this state, with eight factories, makes even more than that city, so that Pennsylvania is easily first in the industry. The making of such glass is a business all by itself, requiring a special sort of glass and special process and is not to be confounded with the making of plate glass or pressed glass or any other. The glass used is of a peculiar composition known as "lead glass" and it contains something like 60 per cent. of lead. It is this metal in the glass rather than the thickness of the finished product which makes it so heavy.

Few if any cut glass maunfacturers in this country fuse their own glass. This is another special trade and the raw material as furnished to the cutters is the pieces already shaped. Much of this raw material comes from Europe, but a large amount is made in this country, Pennsylvania having two extensive concerns devoted to its production, one of which, the Dorflinger plant, is located at White Mills, five miles from Honesdale. Cutting glass is really only the carving upon it of the figures and designs. None of the processes require heat or fusing of the glass and the material is handled in a way which makes the trade distinctive.

An Interesting Process.

The first operation in the cut glass factory is putting the design upon the smooth piece with a thin line of black or red paint, the depth of the cut being indicated rather by the design itself than by any variation in the width of the line. When the design is marked the piece goes to the cutter where the rough cutting is done. For this the cutter has a steel wheel, sometimes a foot or more in diameter, and less than a half-inch in thickness. The edge of this has been ground to a bevel, and the cutting is done with fine sand mixed with water, which is permitted to flow in a tiny stream upon the revolving wheel. For small work the cutter can handle the piece himself, but when it is large and heavy, he has an assistant who helps him to hold it.

From this operation the cut faces of the glass become quite opaque, like ground-glass, and require not only smoothing but finally polishing, both of which are really separate trades from that of the cutter. The smoother uses a stone wheel of such fineness of grade that it will remove the roughened surface of the cut so as to destroy its opacity. High polish, such as the glass had before being cut, is still needed, however, and so it goes to the polisher, who uses wheels of wood, felt or brush, according to the character of the work, and pumice or rotten stone or putty powder. Such a high degree of polish is desired on all parts of that to preserve certain parts which have not been cut, and which might be subjected to scratching or tarnishing, they are covered with black wax before going to the polisher.

When the polishing is completed the work is finished, except that the piece must be thoroughly cleansed of every sort of dirt which may have been accumulated during the process. This is effected by washing it with water and soap that is free from all substances which might produce etching, and rinsing off in clear water. Then the piece is sprinkled with clean saw dust fine enough to enter every crevice. This absorbs all moisture and when the saw dust is carefully shaken and brushed off the piece is ready to be packed in soft tissue paper, a great deal of which is used for each article.

The Care of Cut Glass.

In this condition the piece is cleaner and more brilliantly iridescent, it is safe to say, than it ever will be again, for comparatively few housekeepers are able to keep cut glass in good condition. This, however, is a matter of ignorance rather than difficulty, for, while the glass is much softer than the cut diamond, which stands such a marvelous amount of abuse by the average wearer, it is still hard enough to keep its brilliancy untarnished forever if properly treated. In washing no soap should be applied that contains any injurious alkali or acid to eat the faces of the glass, and for a thorough drying sawdust should be used. It is important, too, to keep the uncut glass sides of the piece as free from dirt and scratches as the cut side.

A widely prevalent idea that cut glass is waning in popularity seems to be entirely erroneous. There may have been signs of such waning when prices were high, but since the cost of making has been so greatly cheapened the business shows a wonderful increase. One maker says that it has a little more than doubled in the last three years and gives signs of further enlargement.

The British Medical Journal says that only an imaginary remedy will cure an imaginary disease, which is true to the old maxim, "Similia similibus curantur." It continues: "This may be condemned by the righteous as quackery, and quackery of a kind it undoubtedly is. But if the real end of medicine is to cure can she, when legitimate means fail, afford to despise anything that relieves suffering, even though the suffering be imaginary?"

Should Help Himself.

"Yes," young Mr. Timmid admitted; "I've always been bashful among the girls."

"But why should you be?" asked Miss Yern encouragingly.

"I can't help myself."

"Gracious!" she exclaimed, pursing up her lips. "If you don't help yourself, how can you expect to get any?"

Speculation.

Experience proves that those who gain money rapidly by speculation almost never keep it, and when they have lost it they are infinitely worse off than they were before.—Success Magazine.

WOMAN

"Woman" is the name of a new magazine for women. The first number is just issued. Your newsdealer has it. You can get it from him, and it is worth your while getting it. There is nothing startling about this magazine. There should be nothing startling about a decent magazine for women and the home. But this particular magazine is unique among all the so-called publications for women. You might not like it a little bit, and then, again, it might hit your fancy good and hard.

If you like fiction—good, wide-awake, snappy stories—both serials and short stories—you will like "Woman." In fact, fiction is the big feature of the magazine.

All the other magazines for women are cast on the same model—a little bit of fiction, a few articles, more or less chit chat, some wise advice, a fashion department and a smattering of general miscellany. "WOMAN" doesn't look any more like this conventional model than a yellow dog looks like a race horse. It is built on new lines for a strictly woman's publication. To know what it is like you will have to get a copy of it. It would cost too much to tell you all about it in this advertisement.

The price of "WOMAN" is TEN CENTS A COPY, and the magazine is a very big one—192 pages.

By the way, two rattling good serial stories begin in this first number and it contains a big lot of other good things. You would do well to ask your dealer for it before his supply is exhausted.

THE FRANK A. MUNSEY COMPANY, New York.

One of the necessities of the farm home is an accessible and convenient clothesline, especially during the cold weather.

The more attractive the immediate vicinity of the back door is made by throwing table scraps and dish water the more friendly will the chickens, cats and stray dogs become. The invitation is too attractive to resist.

Some people claim that parsley cannot be grown successfully in the house during the winter, as it becomes infested with insects. However, the leaves carefully washed and dried can be kept and are good to use in flavoring soups.

As a result of orders lately issued by James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, no canned meets which do not fully conform to the inspection label can be accepted by the railroads for interstate commerce. It begins to look very much as if Uncle Sam meant business when he enacted the recent pure food law.

Like some other institutions of long standing, the popularity of the county fair has reached its zenith and now is somewhat diminishing. People still attend the fair, but more to have a day off and a general good time with their friends than for what they may learn and see. The novelty has passed, and with it some of the spirit of rivalry and enthusiasm.

What can exceed the comfort, cheer and hospitality of the farm homestead when the cool days come on with the bright blossoms in the windows, the soft glow of the evening lamp, the cheerful sparkle and roar of the fire, the tempting fragrance of the supper and, above all, the gay frolic of the children? And the nicest part of it all is the fact that there is no sham about it. It is all real and honestly afforded.

We know an orchardist who has been greatly troubled with grasshoppers this year who is going to raise a hundred turkeys next season chiefly with the idea in view of having them range over his orchard and keep this pest in check. A number of newly set trees in the writer's orchard are dead this fall as a result of having the leaves entirely stripped from them by grasshoppers, while the damage done by them to ripe apples has been considerable.

There are portions of the corn belt where the chief topic of conversation the past season touching this crop has been the ravages of the corn root worm. A resident of such a locality told us recently that in one field which he examined early in September 50 per cent of the stalks inspected were affected by the worm, while in another it was found in all, although there was no outward evidence of the presence of the worm in every case. The only remedy for this pest seems to be a systematic crop rotation.

A leading eastern horticulturist is reported as saying that as long as the orchard continues in a thrifty condition and raises profitable crops it is not in need of fertilizers, but when the trees show signs of impoverishment then something should be done. We do not know of the standing of this authority in his home state, but it strikes one that the time to fertilize the orchard is before it begins to show signs of a lack of fertilizing. In other words, it is better to keep the orchard from getting sick than it is to restore it to normal condition after it is run down.

There is no one of the faculties in children that should be more closely watched by parents than that of the eyesight. It is all too often the case that defects which develop in the growing child, accompanied by severe headaches, are not given proper attention, and as a result conditions which might have been removed by providing proper glasses become permanent, entailing an expense and proving a handicap from which one is never free. If the child in the home complains of eye and headache, there is something the matter, and the cause should be removed as soon as possible.

We once heard of a real decent young man—educated, too—who went to work upon a farm during the hot, sticky season. Naturally he was very tired and dirty after working all day in the field. He had been used in days past after such exercise to relieve his feelings by taking a bath and putting on fresh clothing, even though old. He thought to do the same at this place. Having secured the water, he sought for a place of seclusion where he might use it, but a large family and a small house did not ease the situation. As a last resort he waited until dusk had enshrouded the place; then he quietly slid out behind the straw stack. This is a situation too often to be contended with in the farm home. It seems a pity not to be able to keep clean when one is naturally inclined that way.

water pipes used to convey water during the winter should be well covered before the first cold blast comes on.

When bees are kept for honey or for work in the orchard they become as property, and the owner is responsible for any damage done by them. This is necessary for the protection of the bees as well as the neighbors.

Out in Arizona, where irrigation supplants rainfall, a good ten acre farm is worth one ten times that size farther east, and there is just about one-tenth as much civilization out there too. We rarely find all the good things in one place.

Little trouble is experienced in keeping the boy on the farm who wins substantial prizes in corn growing contests. The success he attains in such contests is all the evidence that is needed to prove that he is interested in agriculture, and this, after all, is the key to the situation.

Some time before it freezes up a supply of clean sand should be put in the cellar in which to pack the carrots, turnips and other root crops of the garden. Stored in this way they will keep crisp and fresh for months and come out in almost as good condition as if taken from the garden.

If fish which contain too large a per cent of oil, such as whitefish, lake trout, etc., an objectionable feature to some, are baked on a piece of clean pine board, much of the oil will be absorbed in cooking, while the woody flavor which the fish will absorb from the pine will give it a desirable taste.

As a rule, it is inadvisable to try to raise a type of corn in the northern part of the corn belt which one has to reach above his chest to husk. Where the stalks bear their ears higher than this it not only causes inconvenience in husking, but indicates a likelihood that such corn does not mature sufficiently early to escape the frost.

While the statement of the scientist is to the effect that frosts have nothing to do with the coloring of the autumn leaves, it was very noticeable on the 22d day of September that, with no frost to date, every bush and tree still wore its June-time dress of dark green. While the leaf coloring is doubtless due to chemical changes in the leaf itself, may it not be that frosts tend to superinduce these conditions?

Fowls as well as horses and cattle need exercise. One way to give them this is to make them do a little scratching for a living—in other words, don't place their food too conveniently or pay too much attention to them. They seem to know that they have a supper time, and they stand around and wait instead of getting out and doing a little scratching on their own account. Otherwise they get dumpy and fail to maintain a good healthy condition.

There is much to be commended in the plan followed by a good many farmers in allowing the good wife to have for her own all the money made from the chickens and turkeys which may be raised on the farm. If she should get every cent of it, she would be only getting what she has in nine cases out of ten earned, but yet a great deal less than she would be entitled to under an equitable division of the proceeds derived from the management of the farm.

In view of the fact that oat straw if cut at the proper time and properly stacked has a fodder value of about one-third that of good timothy hay it is at once apparent that the careless method which is followed by many farmers in stacking the straw and the subsequent indifferent way of utilizing it involve a definite and considerable loss. In the case mentioned, as with some other products of the farm, the best use can be got from them only when stock is kept on the farm in generous quantities.

Three things are to be considered in permitting the immigrant to come into our country. They are physique, destination and the presence or absence of disease. Those of weak constitutions flock to the large cities, where they herd together in the tenement, not only polluting the already bad air, but also aggravating the crowded and poverty stricken conditions, while those of the more rugged and hardy frames scatter out over the broad and fertile prairies, where they make homes and build cities and become actual as well as nominal citizens. The latter class are not only welcomed, but encouraged to locate within our borders.

Many things combine today to help him who would till the soil and live close to the heart of nature. Uncle Sam is most generous in sending out researches, reports and general information along agricultural lines, and many there are who show their appreciation by the good use they make of the knowledge sent out. Especially valuable to the settler or to one who contemplates settling in a new country are the pamphlets descriptive of soil, climate and general conditions which are published. The information thus furnished, if properly heeded, might be the means of saving one a bad move and expense, or, on the other hand, it might lead to a move which would change one's condition from poverty and debt to wealth and influence.

AN OLD TIME HARVEST.

While highly developed farm machinery has robbed harvest time of the bulk of its hard work and immensely simplified its operations, there seems to have been lost in this rapid substitution of inanimate machinery for human hands much of the sentiment which used to be attached to the old time harvest, with its service of praise and thanksgiving to an all wise God for his goodness in sending bountiful crops to cheer the tillers of the soil. Such a service as the one mentioned is quaintly portrayed in Blackmore's "Lorna Doone," one of the finest and sweetest stories of country life ever written. Here is narrated how, when the grain was ready to cut, a procession composed of the leading farmers of the neighborhood, each accompanied by the members of his family, his hired men and maidens, and led by the parson, wearing gown and cassock, with the parish Bible in his hand and a sickle strapped to his back, marched to the field first to be cut. Here after the gate was opened the parson uttered a brief invocation and read appropriate verses from the parish Bible, after which he laid the Bible down and "three good swipes he cut of corn and laid them right end onward." When this was done the proprietors of the farm entered the field, and both united in the following: "Thank the Lord for all his mercies and these the first fruits of his hand." After a second reading of the psalms by the parish clerk the men with sickles began the real harvest operations. Thus the work progressed, accompanied by much feasting and drinking, until evening, when there was a special harvest supper. At its close all joined in the Exmoor harvest song, of which the following stanzas are the first verse and its chorus:

The corn, oh, the corn; 'tis the ripening of the corn!
Go unto the door, my lad, and look beneath the moon.
Thou canst see, beyond the wood rick, how it is yelloon.
'Tis the harvesting of wheat, and the barley must be shorn.

CHORUS.

The corn, oh, the corn, and the yellow, mellow corn!
Here's to the corn, with the cups upon the board!
We've been reaping all the day, and we'll reap again the morn
And fetch it home to mow yard, and then we'll thank the Lord!

Similar verses dedicated to the wheat, barley and oats are also sung, each having a chorus of its own. In such manner centuries ago did these simple minded English folk celebrate their harvest time and render thanks for its bounties.

A WORD TO HOME SEEKERS.

A precaution that would save home seekers many trials and great loss of time and money would be a careful investigation into the meteorological record of the new country in which he contemplates settling—in other words, the record of temperature and rainfall. While there are rare instances where the temperature and rainfall of a country may seem to have undergone a permanent change, it is quite safe to assume that drought, heat and windstorms which may have prevailed in any portion of the country in the past may prevail again, and it is but exercising good sense to count upon a recurrence of such conditions as not only within the limit of possibility, but quite likely. To be somewhat more explicit, we seriously question, even in view of an abundant rainfall for several years past, the wisdom of settling in those portions of the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas or Texas which lie west of the one hundredth meridian, commonly known as the agricultural dead line. While the business of grazing has been and is today conducted with profit west of this line and while of late years, due to abundant rainfall, tilled crops have yielded a good return, the raising of them involves too much risk, as the time is almost sure to come when there will be a repetition of the drought and hot winds of past years, when settlers will be compelled to abandon their holdings. In the matter of climate what has been may be again, and it is well to take this fact into account.

THE STRAWBERRY BED.

It is time now to think of the winter care of the strawberry bed. While this is a very simple matter, it is one that should not be slighted. Since it is not extreme cold, but thawing and freezing, that kills the vines, the bed should not be covered until the ground has been solidly frozen, unless indeed the snow should be very late in coming. Straw, wild hay, leaves or any other litter that does not contain weed seeds will answer the purpose. This should not be put on to a greater depth than four or five inches, just enough to keep the bed in cold storage through the winter. While the scattered litter is an inviting place for them, your own and your neighbors' hens should be kept out of the bed so far as possible after it has been put in shape for winter. We have found oat straw the best covering for the strawberry bed, in that it does not pack down too tight and yet is not easily displaced by the wind.

CONCERNING DIET.

Many families would be better off if they subsisted more largely on graham bread and apples and to a far less degree on fried pork and saleratus biscuits. In addition to being pleasing to the taste apples furnish in generous amounts those elements which the system needs, are conducive to sleep, mildly laxative and from every point of view wholesome and beneficial as an article of food. Instead of skimping the children to one gnarly, runty apple every other day they should be allowed to have all that they can "eat up clean." The apple eating habit is one that should be cultivated by old as well as young. It is one of the best ways of paying doctors' bills.

Good Dog.

The brave Newfoundland had just rescued his young master from the boiling surf.

"My dog, too," said L'Oignon pensively, "once saved my life."

"Tell us about it," said Tete de Veau, with eager interest.

"I sold him for $3," said L'Oignon, "when I was nearly starving."

Full Price.

Mrs. Skrimper—One can never believe one-half that is said in advertisements. Blasfold & Tating had an advertisement in yesterday's paper saying that everything was marked down. Mrs. Bargainhunter—Yes, I saw it. Mrs. Skrimper—Well, it was false. I bought two postage stamps there this morning, and I had to pay as much as ever for them.

The next session of Pomona Grange, No. 23, will be held with Iona grange, Nov. 25 and 30.

Tioga County Pomona grange has a stationary headquarters and a committee that is to make various collections for exhibition at their own home. How fine it would be if our Pomona was as well provided with object lessons for its members. A grange museum would be a fruitful source of education and a drawing card for all thoughtful members.

Since the active work of the State zoologist has been in operation we feel the need of a grange museum more than ever. A traveling museum to be carried from place to place in order to keep company with Pomona would not seem to be a very convenient affair so we are of the opinion that the Pomona grange ought to have a fixed place to meet at least once a year. Some one has said have a grange bank and a hall connected with it for Pomona meetings. Several grange banks have been organized in the state and the time is not far distnat when there will be many more and then Pomona headquarters would be the right thing in the right place when near by the grange bank.

E. R. Mulford, chairman of the State Grange Zoological committee, asks each county member of the committee to report to him before Nov. 15 all localities infested with the San Jose scale. He says at that time there will be a united effort to eradicate the pest. The grange ought to do its work well and thoroughly, so we ask any one finding this pest located in Bradford county to send short twigs having the San Jose scale on them to A. T. Lilley, LeRoy, Pa., who is the member of the committee for Bradford county. Do not fail to report soon, naming locality.

Deputy Asa S. Stevens reports that at his recent inspections he finds: Valley grange, No. 1319, has a membership of 52, with an average attendance of 20; Laurel Hill, No. 1161, 135 members, gain of 23, with an average attendance of 31; D. B. Mauger, No. 111, a membership of 122, gain of six, with an average attendance of 21; Smithfield, No. 214, 115 members, gain of eight, with average attendance of 18; Ulster, No. 173, 85 members, making a total gain in the five granges of 90.

At the West end of the rock at the Franklin Narrows on the P., B. and E. railroad, many casts are found that were formed within the shells of a well known lamella branch, called grammysia ellipica. One day a short time ago one person took away six specimens, another 19, and another a bag full. Like the clam this animal lived in the mud and was somewhat like it in form. It often happened that after death and the decay of the flesh that the valves were caused to slip or open when the inside of the shell would become filled with sediment which has since hardened thus making a cast the shape of the inside of the shell. The casts found are of various distorted shapes. The form that attracts the most attention was made by the shell resting on its hinge edge receiving a pressure from above on the other edge, the valves were crushed to bulge and open so that the casts are heart shaped. With these casts are associated casts of productella, spirifer, rhynchonella, and crinoids. The possiliferous strata holding these casts lies a few feet below the top of the Chemung rocks.

The loyal Patron of Husbandry is ever on the alert to do something that will add strength to his grange. He wastes no time in grumbling but hastens to his particular field of labor and then works with a will that does not hesitate to learn what others are doing unless he feels confident that by his doing he may gain strength that will give vigor to his efforts in advancing grange prosperity. Grumblers have been known to gain admission to the grange as well as to the church and political organizations, but it has been truly said like begets like. There is a great amount of work to be done that is ready for the willing hand. No idlers are needed because they are in the way of the active and willing laborers. Without action there would be no sunshine.

In speaking of farm cereals it has been well said: 'Corn is king." Farmers have raised corn ever since it was found in use by the Indian, but there is much yet to be learned by many patrons before they make it a money-making crop. Tioga Pomona is to have a corn exhibit at its next session. Much may be learned from a good exhibit that will put dollars in the pockets of the observer. Our Pomona grange should be ready to compare notes with the most advanced. Work, in a skilfull way, is what tells. If there is a patron who does not belong to the workers, he ought to at once. The reward follows labor.

Forgiveness.

"I can forgive, but I cannot forget," is only one way of saying, "I will not forgive." A forgiveness ought to be like a canceled note, torn in two and burned up, so that it can never be shown against a man. There is an ugly kind of forgiveness in the world—a kind of hedgehog forgiveness shot out like quills.

WHY IT SUCCEEDS.

Because It's for One Thing Only, and Towanda is Learning to Appreciate This.

Nothing can be good for everything.

Doing one thing well brings success.

Doan's Kidney Pills do noe thing only.

They cure sick kidneys.

They cure backache, every kidney ill.

Here is Towanda evidence to prove it:

John Coates, employed at Toy factory, living on Railroad street, south of Towanda, says: "I suffered from backache for some time without knowing the cause, until other symptoms of kidney complaint developed and became very annoying. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me as being a remedy on which I could rely, so I bought a box and took the pills as directed. Three boxes entirely freed me from all symptoms which had caused me so much misery. I feel that I cannot say too much of Doan's Kidney Pills. They made a complete cure in my case."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

NEW YORK FASHIONS

Patterns For a Modish Gown Designed by Martha Dean—Nos. 6431 and 6368.

The designs for street gowns are very charming in their freedom from the over-elaborate, and this feature is not unpleasant to the woman who fashions her own frocks. A smart model is given, which would serve well for street wear or for use at home. It combines the latest ideas along fashion lines and would become almost any one. The material used is a rich plum colored broadcloth, with chemisette of tucked taffeta. Small box plaits stitched to yoke depth provide a becoming fullness, as well as adornment. The skirt is a new thirteen gore model, having its plaits stitched to yoke depth, they being adorned with straps crossing the gores and following the plaits up a short distance in graduated depth to simulate a yoke. The front gore resembles a panel, falling uninterruptedly from the belt. The panel effects are very modish and are undoubtedly an influence of the empire. The gown is not difficult of construction and is suitable to cashmere, henrietta, broadcloth or voile. For the medium size eight yards of forty-four inch material are necessary. Two patterns—No. 6431, sizes, 32 to 42 inches bust; No. 6368, sizes, 20 to 30 inches waist.

DIRECTIONS FOR ORDERING

Send 20 cents to this office, give numbers of these patterns, Nos. 6431 and 6368, and state sizes desired. They will then be sent to you by mail postpaid. ## THE P., B. AND E. WILL COME TO COURT.

Mrs. Olive Brown of Franklin, Secures Injunction and Stops Work.

Trouble has arisen between a property owner on the line of the P., B. and E. railroad and the officials of the company, and in the prothonotary's office here Monday was filed a bill in equity by Olive L. Brown of Franklin township, which specifies that the railroad company and the contracting firm of Holbrook, Cabot & Rollins have trespassed upon her farm without taking the necessary steps to gain her consent.

As a result of the filing of the document an injunction has been issued by the Bradford county coourt, restraining the railroad company, the contractors, or any other person in their employ or acting for them from conducting any further operations on the property of Mrs. Brown in Franklin township. This unexepected difficulty that has arisen will serve to hold up the construction work, it is believed, for the several gangs are now ready to move upon the Brown property. Negotiations have several times been attempted between the owner of the farm and the railroad builders, but have each time failed to came to an agrement were ordered to claimed, the workmen were ordered to continue their work upon land to which the P., B. and E. has no right and upon which they have never made made any effort to secure by condemnation procedings or otherwise. The case is ordered to be heard on Nov. 3, before Judge Fanning. Stephen H. Smith is attorney for the complainant, William P. Wilson of Lilley & Wilson, being associate counsel.

The Deadly Torpedo.

Friday morning Harold, the five years old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Johnson of Sayre, was sent uptown on an errand. In front of the residence of Hester Piollet he saw an object lying on the walk which attarcted his attention. He put it in his pocket and when he returned to his home he proceeded to investigate his find. He took it to the back door and began pounding it with a hammer. It proved to be a torpedo used for railroad purposes, and when it exploded it tore a part of his right forefinger away, and filled his face with powder. Fortunately his eyes were uninjured.—Valley Record.

Pennsylvania Gold Miners.

Many farmers in the vicinity of Limeport, Lehigh county, have become convinced that large quantities of gold exist in the Chestnut Hills, near that vilage, and mining operations have been begun on an extensive scale on the farms of Henry Bean, William Kemmerer and Daniel Detwiler. The gold is believed to exist in the yellowish sand found in that locality, and many carloads of this sand are being shipped away for the purpose of having the precious metal extratced from it. Mr. Kemmerer was the first to find the gold.

Standard Oil Man Here.

William Miller of Philadelphia, superintendent of equipment of the Standard Oil company's Philadelphia field, is spending a day or two in this vicinity, looking after the interests of the big concern. ## PRETTY AUTUMN WEDDING.

Philadelphia Man Wins Leona Bride, Popular Bradford Girl.

A pretty Autumn wedding was solemnized in Leona on Wednesday evening at 7:30 at "Omegarest," the home of Mr. and Mrs. Abner T. Griffith, when their youngest daughter, Alice F., became the bride of George C. Ziegler, Jr., of Philadelphia.

The groom is the son of George C. Zeigler, comptroller of the Reading railroad, and his bride is well known in Towanda, having formerly lived here.

The house was attractive with Autumn foliage, and pink and white carnations graced the several rooms. The ceremony was performed in the parlor by Dr. Milton Cook, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Merryall, Pa. Miss Grace Brown of Springfield played the wedding march. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Griffith of Philadelphia, the best man being Roger Hollinger of Philadelphia. The little niece of the bride, Marion Griffith of Coatsville, Pa., was ring bearer and wore a dainty fock of Swiss and Valenciennes. The bride was gowned in white silk muslin over taffeta with long tulle veil, her only ornament being a brooch of diamonds and pearls, the gift of the groom. She carried Bride's roses and lilies-of-the-valley. After congratulations, an elaborate menu was served. The bride's table was graced with a centerpiece of American Beauty roses and the place cards were decorated with four-leaf clovers in water colors.

The bride wore a handsome gray going-away gown with a hat to match. Mr. and Mrs. Ziegler left on the midnight train for points South.

The wedding gift of the groom's father was a handsome home in West Philadelphia, where the bride and groom will be at home at 1004 Farragut Terrace after Dec. 1.

Mrs. Ziegler belongs to an old and aristocratic Philadelphia family and has a large circle of friends in Towanda and Troy. Mr. Ziegler has an important position as auditor of the Reading railroad, where he is held in high esteem.

The guests from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. George C. Ziegler, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Murphy, Miss Keller, Miss Leibrick, Mr. Reeves, Alfred Gowan Miller, Roger Hollinger, all of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Blackwell, Miss Rebecca Blackwell, Miss Christine Eilenberger of Towanda; Mrs. Baker, Coatsville; Miss Rebecca Massey, Frasier, and Miss Vastine, Catawissa.

Engagement Announced.

The engagement is announced of Miss Mabel Baldwin of Waverly, to Stuart Macafee of Athens, both young people being well known in Towanda social circles. Miss Baldwin is the only daughter of A. J. Baldwin, and a niece of Hugh J. Baldwin. Mr. Macafee, the principal owner of the Macafee Cement company of Athens, and well known as a contractor throughout this section.

An Opera House Orchestra.

Manager Kirby, of the Hale Opera House, has decided to secure for the balance of the theatrical season the Bazett orchestra, and the full number of musicians will be on hand for each performance hereafter. Patrons of the house will appreciate Mr. Kirby's efforts to improve his play house whenever he sees an opportunity.

Funeral Services of Mrs. Simpson.

A private service for Mrs. W. S. Simpson, whose body was brought here Thursday on train No. 7, was held at her late home on Second street at 4:30 on Friday afternoon. The remains were taken Saturday morning to Mount Pocono, her birthplace, for burial.

Will Have a New Front.

MODEL HEATING PLANT TO BE READY SOON.

Boilers Set Up, Pipes Being Laid, More Radiation Necessary.

The work of installing the new heating plant which is hereafter to keep the county buildings warm, is progressing satisfactorily under the direction of the county commissioners and the expert sent from Troy by John E. Dobbins, who is putting up the plant.

The two large boilers have been set up in the basement of the old court house, now the Bradford Historical Museum; the boilers of New York state manufacture, having been made in Utica, by a well known firm. Pipes will be laid from the Historical building, and for this a trench was practically completed last night. A feature of the new acquisition to the county is that much of the work is being done by the prisoners serving sentences at the jail, thus saving the hire of extra men. It is estimated that the saving that will be effected by heating the court house in this manner will in a short time pay for the plant.

The contractor who undertook the work was placed under a guarantee to properly warm and ventilate the buildings; in order to make good the agreement, it was found that considerably more radiation was necessary, and in the larger court room alone one hundred feet additional steam coils will be required. Additions to the radiators in several other parts of the building will be made, so that when the work is complete, the court house of Bradford county will have a model heating and ventilating system, as well as being a model in other respects.

LILLEY CAMPAIGN MEETING A BIG SUCCESS.

Reports From Sayre Tell of Republican Enthusiasm.

The effort made at Sayre to prevent the use of the R. A. Packer hose rooms for the holding of a Republican mass meeting appeared to act as a boomerang, for the meeting was held at the time and place advertised Saturday night when several hundred voters gathered to listen to addresses by Congressman M. E. Lilley, Captain J. Andrew Wilt, Attorney Charles M. Culver and others. The gathering is reported to have been a most gratifying demonstration of loyalty to the regular Republican candidate for congress, and would seem to do much toward refuting the stories that Sayre is a hot bed of sore-heads and recalcitrants.

The meeting was presided over by President William Cross, of the M. P. A., who is burgess of the borough of Sayre, and the vice presidnts included many representative business men and many of the better class of Lehigh Valley employees. A noticeable feature of the meeting was that the men associated with the congressman in conducting his campaign include several of those who are reported to have been "betrayed." It was explained after the meeting that the only ones now fighting the candidate are Democrats and one or two leaders, whose selfishness received a merited rebuke some months ago, and who promptly took occasion to turn the rebuke into an alleged "betrayal." Upon his return to Towanda, Mr. Lilley expressd himself as pleased with the outlook in Sayre as well as elsewhere in this and the other counties.

Wyalusing Birthday Party.

Mrs. Mary R. Stalford celebrated the eighty-eighth anniversary of her birth on Tuesday of last week, the event being the occasion of the gathering of a number of her neighbors at the old homestead. Mrs. Stalford, who is a woman of remarkable intelligence, is well preserved, enjoying as she does a fair degree of health, with unimpaired mental faculties. Her husband, the late Judge Stalford, was a prominent man in these parts, the family one of the earliest to settle here, their lands being a grant by Governor William Penn to Job Chilloway, an Indian interpreter, who sold the tract to the Stalfords in 1775.

The Moravian Indian town was on these lands, the site being marked by a monument near the tracks of the Lehigh Valley.

TOOK THE HEEMANS AWAY.

Sheriff Parmelee Armed With Requisitions, Claims Two Prisoners.

Among the matters requiring the attention of Judge Fanning upon his return to work Saturday was that of endorsing the requisitions which had come from Harrisburg, allowing the authorities of Tioga county, N. Y., to take Fred and Henry Heeman to Owego jail to await the action of the grand jury on the charge of burglary. Sheriff A. W. Parmelee of Owego, came to Towanda and quite an assemblage gathered in the judge's office to see the notorious pair sent away. Attorney William Wilson was present to say that he believed there were several charges in Bradford county pending against the Heeman brothers, particularly Henry. Sheriff Parmelee created a laugh when he replied that Bradford county could have its Heeman's back just as soon as Tioga was through with them, for members of the family were not wanted in New York state. "Parm." was warned not to let Henry burn the Owego jail.

It is expected that a long term awaits the pair, for to the charge of burglary may be added the more serious one of shooting at police officers. But with the Indian-like indifference for which the family is noted, the prisoners seemed to care little what was going on about them.

Sheriff Parmelee took his prisoners to Waverly, where Police Justice Hoagland had the committment ready. There are now left in the Towanda jail eight members of the family, a list of whose offenses would make another story.

Fishing.

A Fall fishing trip was indulged in Friday by a party of well known Towanda fishermen which included Henry Porter, W. M. Cheney, Guy C. Hollon and Dudley Turner. They report the water game as still biting.

THE LEHIGH LOSES ONE MORE SUIT.

This Time a Wilkes-Barre Alderman Touches the Treasury.

Twelve hundred and fifty dollars was awarded to Alderman John Masterson of Wilkes-Barre, by a jury on Thursday, in a suit against the Lehigh Valley railroad.

Alderman Masterson asked for $10,000 damages for the ruin of his property on North Pennsylvania avenue because of a culvert the defendant maintains and which is allowed to overflow on Mr. Masterson's land.

In giving his testimony before Judge Lynch Mr. Masterson claimed that the Lehigh Valley Railroad company owned the culvert along the Laurel Line road and that it allowed the same to be without repair. As a result the water upon his property. The first time this sewer overflowed was in 1901. Since that time Mr. Masterson alleged it frequently overflowed.

The suit of AldermanMasterson is somewhat of a test case. It was claimed by the defense that Wilkes-Barre accepted the sewer, but the court disposed of this proposition and held the defendant liable. As Alderman Masterson recovered damages, it is more than likely several other suits will be brought.

Troy is Prospering.

The country over, postoffice receipts showed an increase in the past year over the year before of nine and eight-tenths per cent., but Troy did much better. I It showed 19 and a fraction per cent., or just about ten percent. more than the average office. - Postoffice receipts are a pretty good guide to what is doing, and Troy people may well feel good over what its postoffice receipts shows.—Gazette-Register.

Lehigh Valley to Harvest Ice.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad company is about to erect a dam on one of its waterways several miles East of Bear Creek and will flood about 500 acres of land. It is the purpose of the company thus not only to have an adequate supply of water, but also to harvest and house a large quantity of ice each year.

From the lumber mills comes the reports that lumber has not been so scarce an article in years as it is now, and the indications are that the demand for all grades of first-class lumber will be stronger during most of the months this year than it has been for a long time. There is in fact an abnormal demand for it.
